These workbooks have been developed for the children of South Africa under the leadership of the Minister of Basic Education, Mrs Angie Matsheka, and the Deputy Minister of Basic Education, Mr Enver Surty.

The Rainbow Workbooks form part of the Department of Basic Education’s range of interventions aimed at improving the performance of South African learners in the first six grades. As one of the priorities of the Government’s Plan of Action, this project has been made possible by the generous funding of the National Treasury. This has enabled the Department to make these workbooks, in all the official languages, available at no cost.

We hope that teachers will find these workbooks useful in their everyday teaching and in ensuring that their learners cover the curriculum. We have taken care to guide the teacher through each of the activities by the inclusion of icons that indicate what it is that the learner should do.

We sincerely hope that children will enjoy working through the book as they grow and learn, and that you, the teacher, will share their pleasure.

We wish you and your learners every success in using these workbooks.

- Completes cause and effect sentences.

70 Plan to write a story
- Uses an illustrated story organiser to retell the story.
- Writes the story according to a given sequence of events.

71 The soft and the hard-G
- Classifies words according to whether the G-sound is hard or soft.
- Writes a review of a book.

72 Can you count it?
- Completes an activity on countable and uncountable nouns.
- Completes an activity on subject-verb agreement.
- Does a fun activity on comparative adjectives.

Weeks 3 – 4

Reading information texts

73 Where do elephants come from?
- Says a poem out loud.
- Identifies the rhyming pattern in a limerick.
- Makes up own limerick.
- Reads an article.
- Answers questions about the article.
- Shows how picture and headline reinforce information in the article.
- Gives an opinion with reasons.
- Answers questions such as why did?
- What did?
- Identifies fact and opinion.

74 Elephants and Woolly Mammoths
- Matches phrases with their meanings.
- Writes sentences using phrases.
- Reads a chart.
- Writes two comparative paragraphs using information from the chart.
- Labels a diagram.
- Identifies adjectives.
- Uses adjectives in sentences of their own.

75 Bugs, glorious bugs
- Tells a humorous, personal story.
- Reads an article about bugs.
- Answers questions on the article.

- Talks about school to the class.
- Acts out a poem about school.
- Reads an essay written by a pupil.
- Answers questions based on the essay.

78 Making a graph
- Writes down meanings of words and checks meaning in a dictionary.
- Writes a summary of the essay.
- Uses determiners in sentences.
- Makes a bar graph.
- Writes questions about the bar graph.
- Uses phrasal verbs.

79 Cell phones
- Gives clear directions on how to text someone using a cell phone.
- Reads an article.
- Answers multiple choice questions.

80 Sending a text message
- Matches instructions with pictures.
- Summarises the text using a mind map.
- Uses possessive pronouns.
- Identifies sentences that contain universal truths and says why.
Robert has invited his friend John for a “sleepover”. The two boys enjoy playing on Robert’s Nintendo game.

“This is the best computer game!” shrieked Robert. “Come and see the monsters attacking me!”

“Wow!” John exclaimed. “Where did you get such a scary game? You’d better use all your artillery to attack the monsters or they will destroy you!”

“I’ve still got five lives! But this is the most difficult game I’ve ever played. It looks like they’re going to destroy me! Look at this monster with three eyes. He’s vicious!” Robert shouted.

“Robert and John,” called Robert’s mother. “Put that Nintendo away and get to bed now!”

“Ok, but I just want to destroy this guy first,” Robert called back.
“Switch the game off now,” said his mother. “You can carry on playing it tomorrow. Switch off the lights immediately!”

“Okay Mom,” said Robert as he switched off his light and carried on playing his Nintendo game under the blankets late into the night.

John, who was exhausted by now, fell fast asleep.

Eventually the monster won the game and, feeling quite defeated, Robert dropped the Nintendo to the floor and fell asleep.

Suddenly Robert woke up. What was that noise? Scratch! Bump! Scratch! Scratch!

Robert opened his eyes and pulled the blankets up to his chin. His eyes searched the dark room, trying to see what was making those scary sounds. They were coming from his cupboard. The door moved. Something was bumping against the door.

The door began to open. Robert jumped up and slammed the door shut. He pushed a chair against it.

“Now I can go back to sleep in peace,” he thought.

Just as he climbed back into bed, there was another bump on the door. This time it was an even louder bump.

Gripped by fear, he ran and woke his friend, John.

“John! There’s something in my cupboard! It’s a monster of some kind,” he whispered in a soft voice.

“You probably had a bad nightmare. Let me sleep, I’m tired,” replied John.

“It wasn’t a dream. I had to lock the door. The cupboard door was opening by itself!”

John scratched around in his backpack and found his torch. He walked towards the cupboard. There was another loud thump. The two boys stood still, too frightened to move.

A scratching sound now came from the cupboard.

“Do you hear that?” Robert asked.

John nodded. They could feel their hearts beating harder and faster.

“Who’s there?” John called in a trembling voice.
Before you read the end of the story, talk to your friends about how you think it might end. What do you think will happen next? Write down your ending.

Now your group must role play the ending you have written for the story. When all the groups have done their role plays, decide which ending is the best.

Which words in the story have similar meanings to these words?

[Blank lines for writing]

What do you think the monster that Robert was afraid of looked like? Draw it and then describe it, using as many adjectives as possible.
Now let’s read the end of the story. Compare what you read with the ending you wrote in the previous worksheet.

Robert and John tiptoed to the cupboard. John pulled open the door slightly and Robert shone the torch through the crack. Something was trying to push the door open. Suddenly the torch revealed two yellow eyes.
The boys began to tremble. They slammed the door shut and leaned against it. The bumping and scratching got louder. John took a deep breath and opened the door again. A creature jumped out and streaked past them.

Why do you think John laughed at the end of the story?
Why do you think Robert thought there was a monster in the cupboard?
Do you think the Nintendo game contributed to the fear of the boys?
Have you ever had a nightmare? If so, what do you think caused it?

Did the story end in the way you expected it to end? Explain your answer.

Write down three sentences from the end of the story that show that the boys were frightened.

What are countable nouns? They are the names of things that we can count, like animals and people. We use the words many or some or a few or a lot of with countable nouns.

What are uncountable nouns? Uncountable nouns are the names of things that cannot be counted, like sand, water and salt. We use the words much or a little or a lot of with uncountable nouns.

Ask your friend about things in the classroom or at home. Ask questions starting with

How many ?

How much ?

In each block, write down whether the nouns are countable or uncountable.

Where do elephants come from?

Say this poem out loud to your group.

An elephant lay in his bunk,
In sleep his chest rose and sunk,
He snored and he snored
Till the jungle folks roared -
Then his wife tied a knot in his trunk.

This is a limerick. How many lines does it have? How many syllables are there in each line? What is the pattern of rhyming in the limerick?

Syllables: any one of the parts into which a word is naturally divided when it is pronounced: syl-la-ble

Rhyming pattern: The last sounds in each line of a poem often rhyme and have a specific pattern. To work out the rhyming pattern, give each new sound at the end of a line a letter (A, B, C etc.) If the same sound repeats itself it gets the same letter.

e.g. My cat is nice
My cat eats mice
My cat is old
But still is bold

That headline has become all too common. Last month, poachers killed at least 86 elephants in Chad and 28 in Cameroon. Both countries have lost more than 60% of their elephants to illegal hunters in the last ten years, according to a study by the Wildlife Conservation Society. In 2012 alone, experts say, poachers killed 30 000 elephants in countries across Africa.

Why are so many elephants being killed? The answer lies thousands of miles away from Africa, in a handful of Asian countries. In China, business is booming in fancy shops that sell expensive statues and jewellery made of ivory.

The material comes from elephant tusks. But for many people who buy ivory, the gentle giants are not only out of sight but also out of mind. “Surveys show that seven out of ten Chinese citizens don’t realise that an elephant has to die in order for people to get ivory,” says Will Travers, of the Born Free Foundation. As China’s economy has grown, so has the demand for ivory.

Conservationists are putting pressure on China to crack down on the sale of illegal ivory. Experts say more help is needed in Africa too. Last year, Gabon, in central Africa, set fire to its ivory stockpile. By burning millions of dollars’ worth of tusks, the nation made a strong statement. “We don’t want our children to inherit an empty forest,” said the country’s President, Ali Bongo. With allies like Bongo, elephants just might stand a chance.
Look at the picture on the cover of Time for Kids Magazine. What do you think the article is going to be about?

What does it mean to be “under attack”? What do you think is going to happen to the elephants?

How do you feel when you look at the picture and the headline? Say why.

Now look at the introduction to the article. Does the heading “Dozens of African elephants slaughtered” make you feel better or worse about the elephants? Say why.

Poachers are people who kill animals illegally. Why do you think they do this?

What part of the elephant is valuable? Say why.

What do you think will happen to the calf if the mother is killed? Say why.

What do you think the President of Gabon meant when he said, "We don’t want our children to inherit an empty forest"?

How do you think we can save elephants? Write down two things that you think we can do.

After each statement, write F for fact or O for opinion.

- Ivory comes from elephants’ tusks. F
- Items made from ivory are beautiful. F
- Last year, 30,000 elephants were killed in countries across Africa. F
Match these phrases with their meanings. Draw a line between the phrase and its meaning.

- all too common
- booming
- gentle giants
- out of sight and out of mind
- to crack down
- stand a chance
- growing very quickly
- creatures that are huge but quiet
- have a possibility
- to stop something
- if you don’t see it, it doesn’t happen
- happens all the time

Now write sentences using three of the phrases.

Elephants are related to woolly mammoths, which are extinct. Read the chart to learn about the similarities and differences between the animals. Then write a paragraph comparing the elephant and the woolly mammoth using the information in the chart and the pictures of the elephant and woolly mammoth (on the next page).

Badeef was a small, 6-month-old elephant with big floppy ears and a long trunk. He was too little to have hard, ivory tusks, but one day he would have huge ones. Young Badeef and his mother stood at the watering hole. It was surrounded by long, tender grass and wooden logs. There were a lot of older animals around the deep hole drinking the cool, refreshing water.

Little Badeef lowered his trunk and sipped until he was full. His mother started nudging him with her hard trunk. “It’s time to go,” she said. As usual, Badeef ran beside her as they made their way through the tall grass. “That watering hole is getting too crowded. It’s not safe any longer.”

Badeef had to walk fast on his short legs to keep up with his mother and the other female elephants. After several hours they stopped at an enormous baobab tree. The mother elephant reached up with her long trunk and ripped off the tender leaves and soft branches. She handed some to Badeef and then ate the rest.

Do you remember what an adjective is? It is a word that tells you more about a noun – a naming word.

e.g. beautiful garden

Underline all the adjectives in the following story. Circle the adjectives that tell you more about temperature, age or what something is made of. Finally, use three of the adjectives in sentences of your own.
Look at the picture. Imagine that this is all you were offered for dinner. Tell your group what you would do. Try and make your story descriptive and humorous.

Good enough to eat

October 26, 2012
by Suzanne Zimbler

Some scientists say we should use insects to help feed the world’s growing population. Would you give bugs a try?

Does a crunchy grasshopper sandwich sound yummy? If you live in certain parts of the world – say, Mexico or Thailand or Kenya, or even South Africa – the idea of biting into insects might not seem strange to you at all. For thousands of years, insect-eating has been common practice among many of the world’s people. According to bug-eaters around the globe, insects are tasty. “When they are roasted, I find termites really delicious,” says Arnold van Huis.

Van Huis is a bug scientist. He is also an expert on bug-eating. He has travelled the world to learn how different groups of people gather insects and prepare them as food. It was in Kenya that Van Huis tried the termites. In Zimbabwe, he had “nicely seasoned” locusts.

Bug fans say insects are not only tasty, they are also nutritious. Many are packed with protein, vitamins and minerals.

Meat of the future?
According to the United Nations, the planet’s population is now almost 7 billion. Cattle need large areas of farmland, and feeding the animals can be expensive. “We have to find alternatives to meat,” Van Huis says. “One very good option is using insects.”

Raising insects, which are able to live in crowded quarters, would require less land. Bugs would also be cheaper to feed, since they could eat food scraps, such as potato peels. “We throw away one-third of our food,” he says. “Insects could grow on that.”

Not only could bugs eat our scraps, but they would also require much less food – and water – than animals. Insects also use most of what they eat to grow.

Crunch Time
For insect-eating to become mainstream, Van Huis says people must have a chance to sample...
tasty, ready-to-eat bugs. There are more than 1,700 types of bugs that are safe to eat. But do not even think of snacking on bugs from your backyard, since there is no way of knowing if they are dangerous!

Van Huis is working with chefs in the Netherlands to develop tasty bug recipes. For one experiment, his team prepared two types of meatballs: some made with plain meat and others made with mealworms and meat combined. In a blind taste test, nine out of 10 people preferred the mealworm meatballs.

In the future, will eating insects be common practice for people everywhere? “I’m absolutely sure it will,” says Van Huis.

Care for a Bug Mac, anyone?

Let’s write

Read the magazine article again and then write answers to these questions.

Why do you think Van Huis thinks we need alternatives to meat? Give two possible reasons.

What insects do people eat in South Africa?

Write down the reasons for eating insects – from what you think are the least important to the most important reasons.

4.

Read the article again. Circle all the facts and underline all the opinions. Is the article based mainly on fact or on opinion?

Look at the cover of the magazine. Do you think the picture makes the meal of bugs look tasty? In your answer, talk about the colours of the picture and the way the food is shown.

Do you think the title Bug Bites is a good one? Say why.

Would you prefer to eat a Bug Mac or a Big Mac? Say why.

Vitamin B2 helps your body produce energy. Which insect has the most of this vitamin?

Protein helps build your body. How many grams of protein are in 100 grams of termites?

How many grams of protein are in 200 grams of termites?

How many caterpillars would someone need to eat to get 4 milligrams of iron?

In some parts of the world, eating insects is considered completely normal. What do you think is one reason why some people find it strange?

Talk to your group about what being in Grade 5 means to you.
Now act out this poem.

Homework, I love you. I think that you’re great.
It’s wonderful fun when you keep me up late.
I think you’re the best when I’m totally stressed, preparing and cramming all night for a test.
Homework, I love you. What more can I say?
I love to do hundreds of problems each day.
You boggle my mind and you make me go blind
but still I’m ecstatic that you were assigned.

There’s nothing more fun or exciting to do.
You’re never a chore, for it’s you I adore.
I wish that our teacher would hand you out more.

I am a fifth grade student in Cape Town. I would like to share with you my experience of being in the fifth grade. Is there any fourth grade learner who wants to know how to be able to pass the fifth grade? Well, you should read this. If you don’t read this, you might even fail the fifth grade.

To begin with you need to decide what subjects are the most important. When I spoke to the 80 Grade 5 learners in my school, I found out that 72 of them felt that English and Science were the most important subjects; 56 felt that Social Science was important; 38 felt Maths was important and 28 felt that Life Skills was important. The reasons they gave were the following.

To begin with, before you can pass Grade 5, you have to learn all aspects of communicating properly. This means you should be a fluent reader, you should be able to spell well, and you should, above all, be a good writer. Writing is important because if you write well, you can express your ideas clearly. This will help you when you work on school projects. Also, there are many writing tests in Grade 5 so if you want a good mark in English you have to practise your writing.

Next, Science teaches you about the world around you and how to find solutions to problems. It also teaches you how to be organised. If you are organised, you are able to work clearly, neatly and thoughtfully.

Another important thing you need to know in the fifth grade is all about your country, your culture, and how things work economically. This is why Social Science is important.
Finally, Maths teaches you to think logically and to listen to your teacher all the time even if you are very clever. Every teacher likes learners who pay attention. The learner who pays attention and listens to the teacher usually knows what to do and how to do all the school projects or homework the first time the teacher gives instructions.

The last thing you will need to do in the fifth grade is to make a logical plan and to study your homework every day after school, so you will be ready to write exams any time. That’s why Life Skills is an important subject. I think that a good student should first do homework after school and then play. A good student should not watch too much television but should rather prepare for a lesson every day. In other words, finish your studies first, then play with your friends.

You can now see that it is not easy to be in the fifth grade, but if you read this and realise why your school subjects are important, I believe you should not have any problems and you should be able to pass Grade 5. I hope you will enjoy Grade 5, and I hope you will be a great fifth grade learner.

Write down what you think each word means and then check the meanings of the words in your dictionary.

Write a summary of Nomsa’s essay saying what subjects are most important and why. First underline the topic sentence of each paragraph. Then write down the main ideas clearly and logically. Don’t forget to use link words such as “first”, “then” and “next” in your summary. Once you have written your summary, go through it to make sure you have included the most important points.

Fill in the best word in the spaces.

I passed my ________________ exams with distinction.

George came first, I came second, and Neo was the ________________ person to finish the school race.

I only got ________________ gold star in my test today. I will try harder tomorrow.

This is the ________________ time that I won’t do my homework!

In the ________________ grade, I have ________________ favourite subjects – English and Maths.

Determiner: a word such as “first”, “the”, “one”, “two”, “my”, “your” or “fifth” – a word that comes before a noun and is used to show which thing is being spoken about.
In the reading passage in Worksheet 77, you are told what subjects children at a Cape Town school like best. Make a bar graph to show the information. You are given the numbers of children on the y-axis. You need to complete the x-axis and the bars themselves.

Although he found it hard to learn another language, he never stopped trying.

He never discovered why so few children liked art.

There was a knock on the door and he shouted “enter”!

He considered many things before he bought the car.

In Science he learned that cells separate.
Let's talk

Give your friend clear directions on how to text someone using a cell phone.
Be clear and use words such as "first", "then" and "next". Make sure that your instructions are logical.

Should children have access to the internet?

Zandile says that all her friends have a cell phone, but Zandile’s mom doesn’t want to buy her one. She doesn’t want Zandile to play video games either. What is more, the Internet scares her. Zandile’s mom says, “If Zandile has a cell phone, how do we know who she is talking to? Video games are bad for you. The Internet is dangerous. It’s like having a gun in the house. We should just ban her from using the computer, and I’m not buying her a cell phone until she is eighteen. This is the only way we can be sure that Zandile is safe.”

Zandile’s dad disagrees. Although he agrees that there are some dangers to it, he likes the Internet, and finds it very useful. “The trouble is,” he says, “we can’t stop Zandile from using the Internet, as this would put her at a disadvantage. What is more, I like video games. I think that, when played in moderation, they are fun. Obviously, it is not good to play them without self-control. Finally, I think Zandile needs a cell phone. We can’t take these things away.”

Let’s write

Tick the right answers.

Which of the following best describes the difference between Zandile’s mom and Zandile’s dad?

A Zandile’s mom wants to ban her from using the computer, while her dad likes to play video games.
B Her mom thinks technology is dangerous, while her dad thinks it can be useful.
C Her mom does not care about her future, but her dad is very supportive.
D Her mom is very strict while her dad is not that strict.

Which of the following best describes how her mom and dad are similar?

A Both her parents like technology.
B Both parents think video games are bad.
C Both think the Internet is dangerous.
D Both her mom and dad care about her.
In paragraph 1, Zandile’s mom says, “It’s like having a gun in the house.”
She says this in order to
A. support the idea that the Internet is dangerous
B. reject the idea that guns can be safe if used responsibly
C. encourage Zandile’s dad to buy a gun
D. explain why one can’t control the internet

In paragraph 2, her dad says he thinks Zandile needs a cell phone. You know what her mother thinks.
What is the best reason her dad can give to convince her mom that Zandile needs a cell phone?
A. Zandile can use her cell phone to talk to her friends, instead of borrowing one of ours.
B. A cell phone will teach Zandile how to use new technology.
C. Because all of her friends have a cell phone, Zandile should also have one.
D. If Zandile is in trouble she can use her cell phone to call for help.

In paragraph 2, Zandile’s dad says, “We can’t stop Zandile from using the Internet, as this would put her at a disadvantage.” What does he mean by this?
A. Zandile needs to learn how to use the Internet if she wants to have friends.
B. Zandile should not stop using the Internet because this could slow her learning.
C. If a person’s ability to use the Internet becomes important in the future, Zandile will be at a disadvantage.
D. If Zandile does not learn to use the Internet, then she will never know why it can be dangerous.

Which of the following do you think her dad would disapprove of?
A. On Saturday, Zandile plays video games all evening. The next day, she wakes up early and goes for a walk. She talks to her friend about what she is going to wear to the party.
B. Zandile plays video games for an hour or two. Then she eats lunch and meets her friends at the book shop. That night, she and her friends go to a film.
C. Zandile plays video games all morning. When her friends ask her to play outside, she tells them that she is too busy and continues to play.
D. Zandile plays video games for an hour every day for five days but on these days, she does not watch any TV.

Which of the following would be the best way for Zandile to change the way her mom thinks about technology?
A. Read her a newspaper article that talks about the importance of technology.
B. Provide her with a manual showing how the latest cell phone functions.
C. Take her to the library and show her the five most popular internet websites.
D. Spend the weekend playing video games with her.

80 Sending a text message

Put these instructions on ‘sending a message’ in the right order. Number your instructions from 1 - 10.

1. After selecting the message, receiver’s name or number, press “send” to send the message. Wait to make sure that the message has been sent.

2. Decide what you want to text and to whom. Make sure that your message is polite.

3. To send your completed message, go to “Options” and select “Send”.

4. Add a space after you finish a word. This is usually done by pressing the space bar. You can then begin typing a new word.

5. Select the “Create New Message” option. You should now have a blank text on your screen. Begin typing your message on the keypad.

6. Find the main menu on your cell phone.

7. You can either enter the receiver’s number OR find “Phonebook” and choose the receiver’s name or number.

8. Add punctuation marks. Different phones use different keys for punctuation marks.

9. Most phones have predictive text, which means that before you finish typing the word you are shown what the word could be.

10. In menu, select the “Messages” or “SMS” (which stands for “short messaging service”) icon. The labelling may be different for different phones.

Re-read the text about Zandile and then make a mind map summarising the main points of the text.

The sun rises in the east.

My dog is the prettiest dog in the world.

The earth moves on its own axis.

The twins are very pretty.

The North and South Poles are covered in ice.

Complete the sentences using the possessive pronouns.
We have done an example for you.

The keys on the table are … (for Jack)
The keys on the table are his.

The car outside is … (for me)
This cake is … (for my brother)
These apples are … (for you)
The kites are … (for them)
The blue pyjamas are for … (my sister)

Choose the correct word from the words in brackets and underline it.

Please see if (you’re, your) painting is dry.
(They’re, Their) latest record is selling well.

Underline the sentences that are universal truths. Then, at the bottom, write a sentence saying why they are universal truths.

A universal truth is true no matter where you are and who says it. It is a fact that is permanent and does not change.

Theme 6: Different kinds of texts

Stories

81 Saving our trees
- Tells a story using a given beginning.
- Reads a story.
- Answers questions about the story.
- Identifies character and setting in the story.
- Gives an opinion with reasons.
- Answers questions such as why did? What did?
- Writes a summary of part of the story.
- Identifies the moral of the story.

82 Starting the writing process
- Identifies and writes about similes.
- Writes sentences in reported speech.
- Chooses a topic for a story and makes a mind map to plan the story.
- Makes notes based on the mind map.

83 Quite a bit about dogs
- Tells a story based on a picture.
- Uses "ki" and 'ke' words.
- Reads a poem.
- Answers questions on the poem.
- Identifies the meaning of an idiom.
- Identifies sounds that animals make.
- Gives a good title for the poem.
- Matches words with their meanings.
- Writes words in dictionary.

84 At the sea
- Corrects spelling errors.
- Uses punctuation marks.
- Continues the writing process and writes a draft based on notes.

85 Having a party
- Acts out a play.
- Reads a play.
- Acts out a play.
- Answers questions based on a play.
- Identifies characteristics of a play.
- Identifies punctuation marks used in a play.

Weeks 7 - 8

Reading procedural texts

86 More writing
- Writes down meanings of phrases and checks meaning in a dictionary.
- Writes sentences using phrases.
- Creates sentences making sure there is a subject, verb and object.
- Puts words in alphabetical order.
- Edits a story.
- Uses conditional sentences if … then.

87 Who can I help?
- Tells a story about helping someone.
- Reads a poem.
- Gives the poem a title.
- Answers questions on the poem.
- Gives an opinion with reasons.

88 Finishing my story
- Identifies meanings of words.
- Identifies criteria met in edited story.
- Writes final draft of story.

89 Having a census
- Takes part in a conversation about urban and rural areas.
- Reads a text about the importance of being counted in a census.
- Answers questions about the text.
- Identifies command words in the text.
- Matches instructions with drawings.

90 Thinking about the census
- Completes a crossword.
- Plans an essay about a school census.
- Joins sentences using conjunctions showing addition, sequence and contrast.
- Uses prefixes to change meanings of words and then writes sentences using these new words.

91 Do you count?
- Talks about a diagram showing different aspects of the census.
- Answers questions based on the diagram.
- Discusses a picture with a friend.
- Writes information based on the picture.
- Uses conjunctions showing contrast.
- Gives an opinion with reasons.

92 Holding your own census
- Conducts an interview with people in the community.
- Uses reported speech.
- Writes down questions and answers gathered from the interview.
- Uses the mind map to write an about the needs of the school and the importance of these needs.

93 Let’s be creative
- Gives instructions and acts on instructions.
- Reads instructions on making a dumper truck.
- Answers questions based on the instructions.
- Identifies command words in the text.
- Matches instructions with drawings.

94 Ordering information
- Reads a diagram of the life cycle of a plant.
- Orders information of the life cycle of a plant.
- Identifies words that link information.
- Changes sentences into the passive form.
- Changes words by adding prefixes.

95 Eat well
- Talks about a recipe they like to cook.
- Uses words to order information.
- Reads a text about eating healthily.
- Reads a chart of healthy foods.
- Answers questions based on the text and chart.
- Identifies audience and purpose of the text.
- Draws up a menu using the chart.
- Writes sentences using prepositions.

96 More about healthy eating
- Writes a report on healthy eating using guidelines.
- Rewrites sentences in the negative form.
- Reads definitions from a dictionary.
- Answers questions based on the definitions.
- Writes sentences using words from the dictionary.
South Africa wants to plant more than one million trees throughout the country every year. The project is part of a United Nations programme to encourage the planting of trees that are right for the local environment. The sentences below are the beginning of a story about someone who supported this programme.

I am 11 years old. I decided to have a tree-planting ceremony at my school for my birthday. Instead of the usual gifts, I asked each of my friends to bring a sapling, a spade and some compost…

Work in your groups, and make up the rest of the story. Make sure that, after these beginning sentences, it has a middle and an end.

Now read this story.

The old lady told them to call her Ambi. She looked so small and alone as she led them across the bare, windy hillside down a stony track. At last they reached a hollow and in it stood one enormous old tree. Ambi beckoned them close to it and leaned her back against the trunk. She shut her eyes.

“Now,” she said, “I have a story to tell you. This tree is the very last tree of all our forests. When I was a girl, all these hills were covered in green forests and the fields were full of different crops. My village, which was called Himandal, was a lovely place. It was in the forest and was the home of many families. All that you see now was trees and green fields.”

Wilen looked around, shocked. Millions of trees must once have covered these sad yellow hills. How many monkeys and elephants, birds and deer had lived here? A forest was like a whole world. Until this moment, Wilen hadn’t understood that a whole world could disappear so entirely.

“Will our village also look like this one day?” He shivered to think of it.

Denngu, his uncle, stood between the tree’s great roots, his face pinched and pale and stared at the hills as bare as stone, as if it hurt him to look.

Ambi went on, “The forest gave us wood to build, medicines to heal and food to eat. It brought rain to fill our rivers and to water our crops. But little by little, we cut it down to grow more crops, to mine for coal, to make money.”

Ambi touched Denngu’s arm and looked into his sad, miserable face. “Your father, Jenak,” she told him, “he warned us. The coal will run out, he said. The soil will lose it goodness and no rain will come. He warned us and warned us. But he was only young and no one listened. And one day, all the forest was gone. The coal did run out, the soil did die, the rains did fail. Just as he said. People had to leave or starve. And now there is nothing. Nothing and nobody. Just me and the old tree, as old as these hills, waiting to die.”

Ambi stood away from the tree. “That’s all I have to say. Now go home.”

The bus drove on through the night. Wilen knew now that he must try to win the fight that his grandpa had lost so long ago.

As they got off the bus the next morning, Wilen pulled out the paper money that had been burning in his pocket ever since Denngu had given it to him.

“I love you, but we can’t do this to the land. Keep your money. I can’t and won’t take it!”

By Nicola Davies
Now answer these questions about the story.

Where does the story take place?

There are three main characters in this story: Ambi, Wilen and Denngu.

What kind of person do you think Ambi is and what do you think is important to her? Quote a line from the story to support your answer.

How does Wilen feel about what happened to the village? Quote two words or phrases from the passage to support your answer.

Denngu gave Wilen money but Wilen gives it back to him. Why do you think Denngu gave him money?

What did Denngu’s grandfather warn the villagers about?

One reason why the villagers didn’t listen to his grandfather was because he was young. What do you think another reason could be?

Wilen felt that he should carry on fighting to save the environment. Do you think it is important to care for the environment? Say why.

Write a summary of what happened to Himandal.

What do you think the moral of the story is?
Nicola Davies uses a comparison – a simile – when she says: “A forest was like a whole world”.

What two things are being compared?

What are the similarities between a forest and the world?

Do you think the comparison is a good one? Say why.

The writer uses two more similes in her story:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Simile</th>
<th>What is being compared?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>stared at the hills as bare as stone</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>me and the old tree, as old as these hills</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Rewrite these sentences in reported speech:

Ambi said, “Then one day the forest was gone. People had to leave or starve.”

Wilen said, “I love you, but I can’t do this to the land. I can’t and won’t take your money!”

With direct speech we use the exact words that someone says. We can either do this by using inverted commas to show the exact words that are said or, in a play, by using colons to show when someone is speaking. For example:

Zondi: I’ll call them tomorrow.
Zondi said, “I’ll call them tomorrow.”

With indirect or reported speech we tell someone what the person has said. For example:

Zondi said that she would call them the next day.

Can you see what changes when you change direct into indirect speech?

You take away the quotation marks or colon. You usually use the word that.
The verb changes. For example, the present becomes the past.
The pronouns change. For example, my becomes her; I becomes he or she etc.)
You are going to write a story of your own, now. Choose one of these topics and then start planning your story. Write down your ideas first on your mind map and then use the mind map to write notes. Include what you are going to write about, the characters, the setting, the beginning, middle and end.

My most embarrassing moment
What is important to me …
My first day of school
My biggest surprise
My special friend
A day in the life of …
I’m a happy dog at the beach. If I had the power of speech I would tell you all To throw my ball I’m a happy dog at the beach.

I’m a happy dog at the beach. There are no new tricks you can teach, I’m bouncy and glad And my tail wags like mad, I’m a happy dog at the beach.

I’m a happy dog at the beach. As I hear the seagulls screech I chase and I bark Long into the dark, I’m a happy dog at the beach.
Read the poem again and then write answers to these questions.

Does the dog like the beach? Say why.

He enjoys chasing seagulls. Do you think he can catch them? Say why.

What do you think the dog means when he says, “If I had the power of speech?”

What is the one thing he would ask people to do for him if he could speak?

The dog says he can’t be taught new tricks. What does the idiom “You cannot teach an old dog new tricks” mean? Choose the best meaning from the following:

- It is difficult to make someone change the way they do something when they have been doing it the same way for a long time.
- Old people can’t be taught new things.
- People think the way they do things is always the best way.
- Only young dogs can learn things; older dogs find it very difficult.

Seagulls screech when they fly around. What noises do the following animals make?

cat
whales
seals

What would be a good title for the poem?

Choose the best meaning for the words in bold. Write the words in bold in your dictionary.

Merriam wrote a postcard to her friend, Onicca. But she made mistakes. Help her correct them. Underline the mistakes and then write out the correct word above each one.

Dear Onicca

I am mising you vey mutch. But I am haveing a lovly tim at the sea. Evry day Sam and I go to the beech. We kik the ball, play with my kight and build sand casles. My dog and kiten are also hapy to be at the see. When I get home I'll show yu all my pichures. I am so glad my mom bout me a new camra. Lots of kises.

Love Merriam

You need to use punctuation when you write what people say, so that whoever is reading it, knows when a person speaks and when a person stops speaking. Read this sentence:

Sally says, “I love playing on the beach.”

What punctuation is used to show that Sally is speaking?

Write down two other punctuation marks that are used.

Now punctuate these sentences. Use these punctuation marks:

? ! , .

Sally says I throw the ball to my dog

Sally shouts don’t cross the road now

Notembi replies I can’t come and play today

My friend asks when will you come and play with me
You are going to continue the writing process. Use your mind map and notes from Worksheet 82 to write a rough draft of your essay. Make sure that your draft has:

- a beginning
- a middle
- an end
- characters
- location: where your story takes place
- dialogue
- a problem and how you resolve the problem

Use words such as “and” and “but” to link your sentences.
Having a party

Read this extract from a play about Orphan Annie. There are eight characters in it. Each person in your group should decide what part he or she is going to play. Practise the play and then act it in front of the class.

ANNOUNCER: [Jovial] Here it is! Five forty-five on Orphan Annie's birthday, and so far, Annie hasn't the slightest suspicion of her big surprise party. Joe is keeping Annie away from the farm so she won't catch on, and all Annie's school friends have arrived for the party already.

[Children chatter noisily and run about.]

ANNOUNCER: You can hear the noise they're making in the Silo kitchen, running around Mr and Mrs Silo, and, listen, there's Potato Face talking now.

POTATO FACE: Hey, Squinty! Look at my new scarf!

SQUINTY: I saw it in school today. It looks like a chessboard!

MRS. SILO: Goodness gracious me! Not so much noise! Not so much noise!

MR. SILO: [Laughs] If Annie's anywhere within a kilometre of the house, she can hear the lot of you, most likely.

CINDY: When's she coming, Mrs. Silo?

NOGA: Yes, Mrs. Silo, when will she be here?

MRS. SILO: Are all the children here?

CINDY: Yes, ma'am, everybody from school! The only one that wouldn't come was Mike Gool.

MRS. SILO: He didn't come?

JIMMY: Oh, he’s just a sore head!

POTATO FACE: Joe Corncast and I had to give him a good talking to today so he wouldn't give the secret away to Annie.

NOGA: When's Annie coming, Mrs. Silo?

MRS. SILO: Well, Joe promised to have her here by twenty minutes to four.
Why have all the children come to Mr and Mrs Silo's house?

Let's write

Why do you think Mike Gool didn't want to come to the house?

Why do you think Annie is called “Orphan Annie”?

Do you think Annie is popular? Say why.

Potato Face and Squinty are nicknames for two of the boys. Why do you think they were given these nicknames? In your answer use as many descriptive adjectives as you can think of.

What punctuation marks show you when a new character speaks?

Why has the writer written words in brackets and in a different type face?
Write down what you think each phrase means. Then look up the phrases in your dictionary to see if you are right.

Read the following text that has been edited. Write down the correctly spelled words and punctuation marks in the space provided.

Sparky the Dalmation dog

A long time ago, a little Dalmation puppy sat outside the outside the fense (sp) _________ at the school. The puppy loved watching the children play. He wanted to play with the children, but he was very shy.

One day, the puppy folowed (sp) __________ two children home from school. He curld (sp) __________ up under a tree in the front yard to take a nap. Suddenly, he woke up. When he looked up, he saw that the children’s house was on fire. The puppy knew he needed to get help. He ran down the street to the fire station, barking all the way.

The puppy saw the firefighters jump on their trucks and leave. He tried to run behind them, but his little legs could not keep up. When he got back to the house, he looked all around for the children but could not see them. He was very woried (sp) __________.

After the fire was out, the firefighters noticed the sad-looking puppy shivring (sp) _______ under a tree.

“Look, it’s the little puppy we saw at the station.” Firefighter Janet scooped up the puppy in her arms.

“Hey, little guy, where do you live (punctuation mark needed) ___”

“I know,” said firefighter Janet, “lets (apostrophe needed) ______take him to see the family. I’ll bet he could cheer up the kids,” said the firefighter. She nocked (sp) ________ on the door. The puppy could barely beleive (sp) ________ his eyes!

The children were safe! They hugged the puppy and he wagged his tail.

“Do you know who this puppy belongs to?” asked the firefighter. “He’s a real hero, he ran all the way to the fire station to let us know there was a fire at your house.”

“I guess that makes him a fire dog. Maybe we should call him Sparky. Sparky the Fire Dog,” said the firefighter. Sparky found a new home at the fire station.

Sparky was very pride (sp and tense) _________ of his knew (sp) _________ name and loved his new home at the fire station. He worked hard to teach children and their families everywhere how to stop fires from happening.

Albert Mogale
Let's read

Let's read

Read the poem again and then write down the answers to these questions.

What does Albert Mogale think people should do?

What does he think people need in order to be able to help others? Write a full sentence.

If you are talented what should you do? Write a full sentence.

Do you think your school would think that any talent is important or only a talent that allows you to do well at school? Say why.

What do you think Mogale means when he says “Expose yourself This year”?

The poet repeats the word “expose”. What word could he have used instead of “expose”?

Do you like the poem? Say why. Then give the poem a title.

Write a paragraph describing your talents.

This is the best way to say this. The writer's sentences begin in different ways. The writer uses punctuation correctly. Her words make pictures in my mind. Sentences are different lengths. Almost every word is spelled correctly. The words she uses are powerful and specific. It sounds good when you read it.

Some of the words stay with you after you have finished reading them.

The writing flows easily. The way it is written makes the story easy to read.

Let's write Write the final draft of your story.
Let's talk

Look at the picture and talk to your group about the setting. In which province do you think these people live? Discuss the reasons for your answer. Do you think people who live in a rural area use as much electricity as people who live in an urban area? What about hospitals and schools?

Let's read

When your mom makes cheese and tomato sandwiches for your friends, she needs to know how many friends want sandwiches. This will tell her how many slices of bread to cut, how much butter to use, how many tomatoes to pick, and how much cheese to buy. In the same way, the census counts all the people in the country so that government can work out how many programmes and services are needed and where they are needed. Government will use the census numbers to decide how to spend money for hospitals, schools, housing, roads, water, electricity, playgrounds and lots of other things. Businesses will use the census to decide where to build new shops.

Census workers are called enumerators. They help you fill in a special form. All people are counted. It doesn’t matter where they live, how old they are, what language they speak and whether they are citizens or not. The information that comes out of the census can help make the place where you live a better place.

It is important to be counted in a census. If you aren’t, the place where you stay may not get money from government to build things your community needs.
What is a census?

Why does a country have a census?

Who is counted in a census?

How can a community benefit after a census is held?

Write down three things that you think are needed in your community.

We are told that by holding a census, government will know what services to provide to different communities. What service that government provides do you think is important?

Write three sentences saying why you think it is important.
Complete the crossword. You will find the words in the passage in worksheet 89.

ACROSS
1. plans; arrangements
2. people who carry identity documents of a country

DOWN
3. these are provided to people by municipalities
4. necessary
5. a count to get information

Imagine that your class has just conducted a census to see what your school needs. In Worksheet 92 you are going to write an essay of four paragraphs saying what you think your school needs and why you think it needs these things.

Before writing the essay you are going to plan it by completing this mind map.
The census starts in October. Census gatherers have been trained to get information. (so)

All census gatherers have an official Identity Document. All census gatherers wear special clothes. (and)

Everybody is counted in a census. You must be in the country to be part of a census. (but)

The government uses information from the census to help communities. It is important that everyone is counted. (therefore)

Find out if the census gatherer has an ID. Let the person into your home. (then)

We add a prefix to the beginning of a word to change its meaning. You can use prefixes to make lots of new words and improve your vocabulary.

Use the prefixes in brackets to make new words. Then write sentences with each new word you make.

agree (dis)
polite (im) important (un) significant (in)
Do you count?

Term 3 – Weeks 7 – 8

Look at this diagram, which shows you what a census gatherer wore in 2011. Talk to your friend about it.

Let’s talk

Let’s write

Read the information again and then write answers to these questions.

Why do you think you should be proud to be counted?

There were five things that a real census gatherer had to have. Write them down.

_________________________ ___________________________ ___________________________

_________________________ ___________________________

The colour of the bib was _______________. The colour of the cap was _______________.

What did people ask census gatherers for before allowing them into their houses?

What number could they phone if they were not sure that the person was a proper census gatherer?
Look at the picture and talk to your friend about it.

Let's talk

The young census gatherers who came to our community wore red caps and orange bibs. They carried census forms and a pencil to fill in the information. They wore an ID around their necks. Look again at the diagram and description of census gatherers on the previous page.

In what way is the clothing that those census gatherers are wearing different from the clothing that the census gatherers are wearing in the picture?

Let's write

Complete these sentences.

In the diagram the hat is black but ___________.

In the diagram the bib is yellow but ___________.

If you were alone in the house and you had seen the diagram and the picture of the census gatherers, what would you have done to make sure that the person was a real census gatherer? Write a sentence.

_________
Holding your own census

Ask three people in your community to tell you about the census. Ask them why they thought it was important to be counted in a census and what improved in the community after the census was held.

Then, tell the class about your interviews.

Remember, you will be reporting what someone has said to you.

Write down the questions you asked people in your community about the importance of the census and what they felt improved after the census was done, and their answers. We have started the questions and answers for you.

“Good afternoon. I am doing a school project and would like to ask you some questions. Would you mind answering them?”

“No, of course not! Please come in and we can sit in the dining room at the table.”

Use your mind map from Worksheet 90 to write your essay saying what you think your school needs and why you think it needs these things.

Write four paragraphs.

Make sure that you have a clear introduction and conclusion.

This is a formal essay so your language must be formal.

Make sure that you use link words to hold your essay together.

Give your essay a heading.

Don’t forget to give your essay to a friend to edit.
Have you ever made something out of paper, cardboard or wire? If you have, tell your group what you made, how you made it, and whether it worked or not. Now work with your friend. One of you gives instructions on how to make a bracelet out of cardboard and the other must make the bracelet. Then swap roles.

To make a bracelet
1. Cut out a long, thin strip of card.
2. Stick the ends of the card together with some glue. This will make the shape of your bracelet.
3. Decorate with stickers, coloured beads, and anything else you would like to use.
4. Give to a friend.

Read these instructions carefully.

How to make a dumper truck
You will need:
1 large cereal box
2 small cereal boxes
Shoebox lid
Thin strip of blue paper
4 bottle tops
Red and yellow paint to decorate
4 round lids
Some newspaper
Grey paint
Black paint
Sticky tape

Method
1. Cut one of the small cereal boxes in half, lengthways.
2. Stick it on top of the larger cereal box using sticky tape on one side only.
3. Cut the second small cereal box in half, widthways, and stick this on the other end of the large cereal box, standing upright.
4. Stick a shoebox lid on the highest part of the truck to make a roof.
5. Stick a strip of blue paper just underneath the roof to make a window.
6. Stick two bottle tops onto the lower front of the truck to make the headlights.
7. Paint the truck red and yellow.
8. Paint four round lids black. When they are dry, stick them around the bottom of your truck to make the wheels.
9. Scrunch up pieces of old newspaper and paint them grey to make some rocks for your truck to carry.
Let's write
What is the purpose of these instructions?

What size cereal boxes must you use?

What do you need a shoebox lid for?

You are told to use scrunched up paper. Why?

Write down four command words from the text.

Draw lines to match the instructions with the pictures.

1. Cut one of the small cereal boxes in half, lengthways.
2. Stick it on top of the larger cereal box using sticky tape on one side only.

3. Cut the second small cereal box in half, widthways, and stick this on the other end of the large cereal box, standing upright.
4. Stick a shoebox lid on the highest part of the truck to make a roof.
5. Stick a strip of blue paper just underneath the roof to make a window.

6. Stick two bottle tops onto the lower front of the truck to make the headlights.
7. Paint the truck red and yellow.

8. Paint four round lids black. When they are dry, stick them around the bottom of your truck to make the wheels.

9. Scrunch up pieces of old newspaper and paint them grey to make some rocks for your truck to carry.
Look at the drawing of the life cycle of a plant. The steps in this cycle are always the same.

Now read this paragraph. It describes the life cycle of a plant. However, the sentences in the paragraph are not in the right order. Rewrite the paragraph so that it gives a clear, ordered description of the life cycle of a plant. Use the pictures to help you.

Description of the life cycle of a plant
When the seed is fully grown it is released. When the plant has grown big enough it develops a flower. The seed begins to grow under the ground. Then the old plant fades and dies. Once the flower has been fertilised, seeds begin to form inside the seedpod or fruit of the plant. But the new seed settles on the ground and, in time, begins to grow, so beginning the same cycle again. After a while the flower is fertilised by pollen from another flower of the same kind. Then the young plant pushes above the ground and grows bigger.
You have learned that there are words that help to show when things happen and give order to our writing. They are words such as:

first, second, third, finally, then, when, after a while, next.

Underline all the words in your rewritten paragraph that show order.

The passive voice

Look at these two sentences. They mean the same thing.

Neo plants a flower.
active voice

A flower is planted by Neo.
passive voice

How do we make the passive voice?

We change the verb form into is and are.

We change the positions of the nouns, and we use by.

We use the passive if, for example, we think the plant is the most important thing.

Change these sentences into the passive form.

Neo plants a seed.

Neo waters the seed every day.

Pollen fertilises the flower.

Neo digs the ground.

We sell flowers at the store.

Change the words below by adding these suffixes and then use them in a sentence.

able  ly  less  ed  ful

Lots of children want to know which foods to eat to be healthy, so let’s learn the difference between Go, Slow, and Whoa foods.

Foods can be classified into three groups: Go, Slow, and Whoa.

Go foods
These are foods like fruit, vegetables, meat, chicken and fish that are good to eat almost any time. They are the healthiest foods.

Slow foods
These are “sometimes foods” such as waffles and pancakes. They aren’t banned, but they shouldn’t be eaten every day. At most, eat them once or twice a week.

Whoa foods
These foods should make you say exactly that — Whoa! Should I eat that? Whoa foods are the least healthy and the most likely to cause weight and health problems, especially if a person eats them all the time. That’s why Whoa foods, such as chips, are “once-in-a-while” foods.

Look at the chart that shows you the Go, Slow and Whoa foods. Perhaps you would like to share it with your family so that you can all eat healthily and everyone in the family can learn when to say “Go” and when to say “Whoa”!

That same night, the skipper of the ship crept into the man’s house to steal the mill. He tucked the hand-mill under his arm and quickly left. Once on board his ship, he took the mill out. “Grind salt, and grind both quickly and well,” said the skipper.

So the mill began to grind salt, until it spouted out like water. When the skipper had filled the ship, he wanted to stop the mill, but no matter what he did, it went on grinding. The heap of salt grew higher and higher, until at last the ship sank like a stone to the bottom of the ocean.

And to this day, the mill remains at the bottom of the sea and grinds on. If anyone ever asks, that is why the sea is salty.

What was the skipper doing?

What happened to the boat?

What happened to all the salt?

Do you think what happened here is fact or fiction (a story)?

Once upon a time there were two brothers, one rich and one poor. On one freezing Christmas Eve, the poor brother had nothing to eat. The snow was knee-deep and the wind howled and whistled and he and his wife were starving. So he went to his brother and begged him to give him something for Christmas Day. It was not the first time that the poor brother had asked his brother for a favour. The rich, stingy brother was tired of being asked to help out, so he devised a plan.

“If you will do as I ask, you shall have a whole ham. You must spend a night in the Haunted Cave,” he told his poor brother. Thomas, the poor one, thanked him and agreed, since he had no other options.

“Well, I will do what I have promised,” said the poor brother, and he took the ham and set off. He went on and on all day, and at night time he came to a place where there was a bright light.

“This must be the place,” he thought. An old man with a long white beard was outside chopping logs.

“Good evening,” said Thomas.

“Good evening to you. Where are you going at this late hour?” asked the man.

“I am going to the Haunted Cave. Am I headed in the right direction?”
Answer these questions about the story you have just read.

The story is about:
- A three brothers
- B a kind, rich brother and a mean, poor brother
- C a mean, rich brother and a kind, poor brother
- D an old man

The story is set in:
- A summer
- B spring
- C autumn
- D winter

How do you know this? Write down three things.

When does the story happen? Underline all the words that are true about the story.

- today
- yesterday
- once upon a time
- March
- Christmas
- New Year
- day time
- night time
- Spring
- morning
- December
- snowing
- afternoon
- Easter
- Spring

Is the story fact or fiction? Say why.

Was the journey to the Haunted Cave a long one? Say how you know.

What would you expect to find in the Haunted Cave? Write down three things.
Draw a line to match the words on the left with the words on the right. Write the words from the passage in your dictionary.

What happened next?

Read the beginning of the story below and then make a storyboard showing what you think happened next. Be sure to put each important event that happened in your story in its own box. Below each box, write a sentence describing what happened.

Your teacher decides to take your class on a surprise outing. Excitedly, you get on the bus and take your seat. The next thing you know, the bus has come to a stop and the door is opening…. (You choose where you are going). Don’t forget to use some of the words in your box to show the order of events.
Underline all the adjectives.
Circle those adjectives that tell you more about temperature (whether something is hot, warm or freezing), about age (is the person old or young) or what something is made of (glass, wood or steel).
Finally, use three of the adjectives in sentences of your own.

There were two brothers, a rich, older brother and a poor, younger brother. On one freezing Christmas Eve, the poor brother had nothing to eat. He and his wife were hungry and cold in their little wooden house. So he went to his brother and begged him to give him something for Christmas Day. The rich, stingy brother was tired of being asked to help out, so he devised a plan.

“If you will do as I ask, you shall have a whole ham. You must spend a whole night in the Haunted Cave,” he told his poor brother. The poor one thanked him and agreed, since he had no other options. He started walking in the icy snow to the cave. Finally he saw an old man with a long white beard chopping a wooden log with a steel axe.

Write sentences using these words, which you have already entered into your dictionary.

- stingy
- howl
- devised
- options
- headed
You have been asked to talk about two people: someone who is kind and gentle and someone who is mean and nasty. Make notes for your speech in the space below.

Let’s talk

“Ooh! Yes, you are already there,” said the old woodcutter. “When you get inside, the little people will all want to buy your ham, for they don’t get much meat to eat there. But you must not sell it unless you can get the hand-mill, which stands behind the door. When you come out again, I will teach you how to use the hand-mill properly; it is useful for almost everything.”

So Thomas thanked the old man for his good advice and knocked at the door. When he got in, everything happened just as predicted. People came around him like ants on an anthill and tried to outbid each other for the ham.

“I really shouldn’t sell it,” said the man. “But, if I do decide to sell it, I would like to have the hand-mill that is standing there behind the door.”

At first they said no, but eventually they gave in and traded the hand-mill for the ham.

When Thomas came out again into the yard, he asked the old woodcutter about the hand-mill and how to use the hand-mill.

“It is a wonderful mill. It will grind anything in the world that you wish for. I will show you how to use it. The mill will grind anything you want. But when you want the mill to stop, you must say ‘Halt, halt, little mill’, and the mill will obey you.”

When the poor man had learned how to use the mill he headed home. He got there just as Christmas Day arrived.

The story of the rich man and the poor man continues.

Read the extract again and then answer these questions.

This piece of writing is a:

A play
B newspaper article
C story

Say why.

Are the little people kind or unkind people? Say why you think so.

If you were hungry, would you swop a good meal for a mill grinder? Say why.

Is this piece of writing fact or fiction? Say why you think so.

We know that there were many little people in the Haunted Cave. What simile tells us this? Remember that a simile compares two things using “like” or “as”.

Why do you think the old woodcutter didn’t keep the mill grinder for himself?

If you were the old woodcutter what would you have done? Say why.

Thomas, the poor brother, took the little mill under his arm and trudged home again through the snow.

He could not wait to find out what the mill could do. At home, he put the mill on the wobbly table and smiled. “Look what I have!” His wife looked very uncertain. Why was he bringing home a mill? What were they supposed to eat? However, she was a good person and did not want to complain.

Thomas told the mill to make the most wonderful Christmas dinner. He asked for a turkey, vegetables and two puddings. Everything he asked for, appeared on the table. Next he asked for a Christmas tree, and there it was. His wife asked for presents to put under the tree, and enough food and presents for all their friends.

The mill gave them all they needed.

“Grind, quickly grind, little mill, Grind a house – with a right good will!”

The little mill ground and ground, until the poor brother had the most beautiful house in the world. It had large windows and broad stairways, and the house was fully furnished. It ground everything he needed in the house. It ground sheep and cows and food for them to eat. It ground crops. Finally, Thomas and his wife had everything they needed.

“Halt, halt, little mill!” The mill obeyed him. The rich brother heard about all the strange things that had happened, and he went to visit his poor brother.

This is the next part of the story.

Read the extract again and then write down your answers to these questions.

What kind of person is the poor brother? Give reasons for your answer.

What kind of person is his wife? Give reasons.

Write down three things about Thomas’s brother.

Write down three things that Thomas and his wife asked the mill for.

If you got hold of a magic mill, what three things would you ask it to grind for you?
Writing about character

Complete the sentences using my, your, his, her, its, our or theirs.

Let's write

The poor man loves ___________ mill grinder.

His wife is visiting ___________ best friend in the village.

The mill belonged to the poor, kind man and _______________ wife. It was _______________.

She told his brother that the mill was _______________ not _______________.

She said, “This is _______________ mill.”

Let's write

Are the words in bold countable or uncountable nouns?
Write C or U next to each sentence.

A countable noun has a singular and a plural form. We can use numbers with it: e.g. One book/three books.

An uncountable noun has only one form. We cannot use numbers with it. e.g. work, progress, information, air, life, fun, happiness.

Countable nouns can be singular or plural: e.g. The book is over there. The books are over there.

Uncountable nouns are always singular: e.g. French is difficult.

His advice was very useful.

We put the before a countable noun when there is only one or when we are referring to a particular one, e.g. The man outside the cave.

We also put the before uncountable nouns when we are referring to a particular example.

E.g. I like milk. I like the milk my gran gives us.

Let's write

Complete the sentences using my, your, his, her, its, our or theirs.

Let's write

The children are playing in the garden
I don’t like milk. I prefer tea.

Scientists say that the environment is threatened by pollution.

My mother uses butter to prepare cakes.

There are a lot of windows in our classroom.

We need some glue to fix this vase.

The bread my mother prepares is delicious.

Let's write

Use these words to make sentences of your own.

litre of milk
pats of butter
loaves of bread

Do the words “litre”, “pats” and “loaves” make it possible to count these nouns? Say why.
Get into groups of four. You are going to complete a story. You are given an outline and each person needs to complete one part of the outline. Once you have edited it, write the final group story neatly on a piece of paper and give it to your teacher to read.

Ms Monyane’s magic mill grinder moment

Introduction
Thursday, September 3 began like any other day. It was the beginning of spring. The sun was shining and tiny little leaves were shooting on the huge white stinkwood trees. The clouds that blotted out the sun every now and then might bring much-needed rain. Ms Monyane was taking our Grade 5 English class. Everyone was sitting at their desks either ________________, or ______________ I was ________________________________________________________________________________________.

The incident itself
Nobody was taking much notice of Ms Monyane as she _______________ out of the room. Suddenly, however, she _______________ All of our heads snapped up at once to see what the noise was about. What we saw was __________________________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________________________

What happened next
Ms Monyane remained on the floor for some minutes clutching her _______________. Everyone went really _______________ and were _______________ to their seats. I _______________________________________________________________________________________
No one moved. No one except for _______________ and _______________, who both ________________________________________________________________________________________

What happened next
Suddenly, Ms Monyane _______________. No one could believe she had been joking all the time! Everyone started _______________ and _______________ at once. It was an afternoon in English I will never forget.
The story ends

You see this picture in the newspaper about a ship sinking.

Report the accident to the class. In your report give the following information:

- When the accident happened
- What happened
- The name of the ship
- Why the accident happened
- What happened because of the accident

The story ends

The rich brother knew about the mill grinder and had heard his brother tell the mill to grind things for him. The rich brother wanted the mill more than anything else in the world. He wanted it to make salt — something that everybody wanted and that would make him a lot of money. One evening, he crept into his brother’s house and stole the grinder.

He took the mill onto his ship and started sailing. If he could get the mill to make enough salt to sell to everybody throughout the world, he would be the richest man in the whole world.

When they were out at sea, the brother said, “Grind, quickly grind, little mill, grind salt – with a right good will!”

And the mill ground salt, and more salt, and still more salt. When he had filled his hundred thousand sacks, the brother cried, “Now you must stop, little mill.”

But the little mill did not stop. The brother did not know the right words. The mill kept on grinding salt, and more salt, and still more salt. Soon there was so much salt that the ship sank. But the mill kept on grinding. And that is why the sea is so salty.

Read the passage again and then write down the answers to the questions.

How did the mean, rich brother get hold of the mill?

What did he want from the mill?

How was he punished?

Do you think there is a moral (a lesson) to this story? What is the moral?

Imagine the story ended differently. Perhaps the two brothers became good friends, or Thomas and his wife became greedy and mean. Perhaps they realised that owning things is not important or perhaps they realised that they could help lots of less fortunate people.

Write a new ending for the story, and then say if the moral of the story is the same.

CHILDREN TAKE THE LEAD ON LEARNING

By Michelle Minster

Children in Hillbrow are taking charge of their own learning. And they’re having lots of fun too.

A small room behind a building in Hillbrow is buzzing with activity. Around two large tables children laugh and talk as they draw and colour in slogans: “People shall share”, “Stop the War”, “I love all but I don’t trust anyone”, “I’m the happiest girl in the world”. In the corner sits Tsela Maako, who teaches the group.

She is explaining to two children how to use a machine to make badges for their slogans.

These are just a few of the kids who attend this resource centre after school. Tsela explains why she started the centre.

“I like working with children. I saw many kids walking around after school doing nothing. So I decided to collect them together where they would be safe and I could do fun things with them.”

At the centre

“I come twice a week,” says Nomfundo. “I’ve been coming here for three years. I come because I want to learn new things and I don’t want to get involved with gangsters in the streets.”

Ivy smiles when she talks about what they do in the afternoons. “We learn dancing, music, drama and art.” The children teach themselves dancing and a teacher from the art school comes to teach them art.

Along the walls of this busy room is a miniature city made out of beautiful cardboard houses. The children made them all themselves.

The gardeners

Mawetu loves gardening. He spends much of his time looking after the little plots the centre uses. A gardening group taught the children how to grow things in the poor soil.

“What I like best about our group is that you learn how to plant trees, flowers and vegetables. Then you sell the vegetables and flowers for money.”

In Tsela’s garden there is a crop of potatoes. “The children just planted the potatoes without telling me.” Now the neighbours come up to her and say, ”Don’t the children want to work in our gardens?”

What the children are learning

Some of the children went to workshops on storytelling, toy-making, organising and running meetings, and fund-raising. All the children raise funds and then decide what they are going to do with the money they raise.

“The children tell me what they want to do,” Tsela says, with a smile. “The whole point is about children helping and looking after each other.”
Do you think the workshops the children go to will help them when they are older? Say why.

Who decides what the children are going to learn at the school? Do you think this is a good idea? Say why.

Why did Tselo decide to start the centre?

Why is the heading written in big bold letters?

Why are the two sentences just below the heading written in bold letters?

Who wrote the article?

Where do you think you would find this kind of article?

- Newspaper
- Storybook
- Poetry book

Why do you say so?

A slogan may be a phrase or a sentence, but it is a special kind of phrase or sentence. A slogan is always short and easy to remember, and it is supposed to let other people know what you think about something, or to persuade them to think the same as you, or to persuade them to buy something.

Look at these headlines. Each one is for an article about an activity – the kind that the children at the Hillbrow centre might also enjoy.

Finally, use three of the adjectives in sentences of your own.

A small room behind a building in Hillbrow is buzzing with activity. Around two large tables young children laugh and talk as they draw and colour in slogans. Along the walls of this busy room is a miniature city made out of beautiful cardboard houses. Children do various things at the aftercare centre.

Mawetu loves gardening. He spends much of his time, whether it is hot or cold, looking after the little plots the centre uses. A gardening group taught the children how to grow things in the poor soil.

Sibongile loves making toys – two of her favourite toys are a wooden giraffe and a wire car.

Write an article for your school newspaper about a concert or play that you went to watch. If you can’t remember seeing a play or a concert recently, you can pretend!

Use a full sheet of paper. Make sure that your article has:

A heading written in big letters.
A short explanation of the play or concert. In your article, answer who, when, where, what and how questions like these:

- Who was in the concert or play?
- When was it held?
- Where was it held?
- What did the performers do, or what was the play about?
- How was it done? (Describe it.)

An interview with one of the actors or performers who talks about the success of the play or concert.

A paragraph at the end saying whether you liked it or not, and why.
Look at the pictures. What do you want to do when you are bigger? Tell the class whether you would like to be an actor, a musician, a singer, a sportsperson, a photographer, an actor, a mechanic, or even a potter. Say what interests you about the career you have chosen.

NEWS THREAD - a magazine for kids

11-year-old Designer creates her own fashion for kids

By Mindy Mondy

At age 11, I didn't know whether I wanted to be a ballerina, a vet or an astronaut. Not so 11-year-old Thami Mabena. At her young age, Thami is already receiving a lot of interest in her brightly-coloured and adorable designs for young girls.

Her parents say she became fascinated with fashion design and designers – particularly David Tlale – at a very early age.

At age 7, she wrote a letter to her idol for a class project (most of the other children wrote to Santa) where she said, "I notice you do not have a kids' line."

Thami has stepped in to provide fashionable clothes for kids. Her designs are energetic, have vibrant colours and strong prints. Her dresses have flounced skirts, giant bows, sparkle - all pretty and eye-catching detail that appears to appeal to Thami herself. She definitely wears her own cute designs, topped off with flower headbands and the finishing touch of bright pink nail polish. On top of all this, she sews her clothes herself!

Thami’s excitement and enthusiasm are inspiring to any dress designer. I just hope so much early attention doesn’t dim her passion for fashion. It’s amazing to think she’s only 11 years old. It should be so much fun to see what she does in the future.

Do you have a passion for fashion and designing clothes? Or what are your interests?

We are told she wrote to David Tlale at 7. Who would you have written to at 7 years old? Say why.

Would you wear Thami’s designer range of clothes? Give a reason for your answer.

Apart from designing her clothes, what else does she do that is quite remarkable for an 11-year-old?

Who do you think would want to read this magazine? Give a reason for your answer.

The article uses informal language. Explain the meaning of “dim her passion”.
You have made plurals by adding “s” to a singular noun. The nouns you are now going to use in sentences need plural verbs as there are two parts to them.

Example: The trousers are too long for me and have to be shortened.

You are going to write an article entitled
"Welcome to -" for your school magazine.
You could write about your school, your town, the local zoo or the seaside – in fact, any place that interests you.
Use the article you have read and your plan to write it.

Title: __________________________

Writer: ________________________

Introduction

Paragraph 1: Give information about the place.

Paragraph 2: Give more detail and a quotation from someone about the place.

Concluding paragraph: Why it is an exciting place to visit.

Have you remembered the writing process?
First plan your article by jotting down notes in your exercise book.
Write your first draft.
Give it to a friend or your teacher to edit.
Finally, rewrite it neatly.

Let’s be safe

Talk to your group about these safety signs.

Do you think it’s important for children to be taught about road safety? Say why.

Imagine that you have a new friend. You have invited her to your house but she does not know how to get there. Give her clear directions.

Use words such as turn left, turn right, go straight.

Now read this poster taken from the Department of Basic Education (DBE) newspaper.

DBE WEEKLY NEWS
Road safety SA style

Know the rules of the road

TOP 10 SAFETY TIPS

• Always walk on the pavement.
• Wear appropriate clothing – be safe, be seen.
• Stop, look, listen, think before you cross the road.
• Do not cross the road in between two parked cars.
• Use only safe and available road crossings.
• When you ride your bike always wear a helmet.
• Always get out of a car on the pavement side.
• Do not play near the road – accidents happen.
• Always wear a seatbelt.
• Make sure your younger sister or brother uses a baby car seat.

Why did the Zebra cross the road?

The DBE is launching their decade of action for road safety in September. Their aim is to help school children to avoid accidents.

Look at the new road safety tips for children. Show them to your friends and make sure you follow them each time you are on the road.
Look at the word in the first column. In the second column write down what you think the word means. Finally, check your meaning with the meaning in a dictionary.

What is the Department of Basic Education trying to promote with this poster?

What is the Department’s aim?

If you are walking to school, which tips are most important for you?

Which safety rules are most important if you are coming to school by taxi?

What kind of accident could occur if you played near the road?

Can you think of two other tips to keep safe on your way to school? Write them down.

These are some of the features of a poster. Tick those that appear in the poster on safety.

- It is easy to read.
- Sentences are clear and easy to understand.
- It is colourful to attract attention.
Making a poster

The Traffic Department is sending someone to your school to talk about the importance of safety for children. Design a poster to hang up in all the classes to promote the talk.

Tips for making a poster

- Make your poster as large as possible.
- Keep the writing as big as possible so that people can read it easily.
- Use simple, clear sentences.
- Colour in your poster to attract more attention.
- Do not put too many pictures on your poster.
- Include the venue, and the day, date and time.
- Give the talk a heading.
Irregular verbs are verbs that don’t follow the normal rules. Verbs in the past tense end in “ed” e.g.
I usually walk round the block.
Yesterday I walked round the suburb.
Irregular verbs don’t follow this rule: e.g. I usually buy my clothes from ABC stores.
Today I bought them from a new store.

Circle the words that use the magic “e”.
- cube
- cope
- hat
- bite
- cop
- cub
- cane
- kit
- can
- bit
- tape
- tap
- hate

Now use these words in sentences.
cape fire
cute

Circle the correct verb in each set of brackets.
After proposing his famous Theory of Relativity, Albert Einstein (visit/visited) many universities. He (gived/gave) lectures wherever he (goed/went).

He (wased/was) always (accompanyed/accompanied) by his driver, Harry, who (willed/would) listen to each of the lectures while (seat/seated) in the back row. One day, after Einstein had finished a lecture, Harry (sayed/said), “Professor Einstein, I’ve (heared/heard) your lecture so often now that I think I (willed/would) be able to give it myself!”

“Very well, I’m going to lecture in Dartmouth next week. Nobody knows me there. You can give the lecture.” And so it (goed/went). Harry (deliver/delivered) the lecture perfectly while Einstein (sitted/sat) in the back row playing “driver”. However, as they (ared/were) about to leave, someone (begined/began) to ask him a question about the Theory of Relativity – one that (involve/involved) a lot of difficult equations. Harry (sayed/said), “The answer to this question is very simple. In fact it is so simple, that I’m going to let my driver answer it.”
Children go to the theatre

Act out this poem with a friend in front of the class. Have fun!

My New Pet

Child: I asked my father for a pet.
He said:

Dad: I’ll take you shopping.

Child: My father took me to a store where animals were hopping.
He asked me:

Dad: Which one would you like?

Child: So I picked out a puppy a parakeet, a rabbit
Plus a gerbil and a guppy.
I also picked a monkey And a yellow Siamese cat, a turtle, snake, and lizard,
Plus a very big white rat.
My dad said:

Child: If you want a pet, then you will have to feed it.

Child: Instead, I picked a storybook. I cannot wait to read it.

Children get to the theatre

Daily News, Johannesburg, Friday 21 November

HAPPY DAYS: Children from Lakeview Primary School will be joining in the fun of Christmas Children’s Theatre after all. A businessman has become a hero after coming to the rescue of hundreds of pupils who were going to miss out on their Christmas treat.

Every year, Lakeview Community Primary School’s 420 pupils have travelled by bus for a special trip to see the Christmas show at City Playhouse. But this year, due to rising costs, the school could not afford to go to the theatre. The disappointed children were to miss out on their annual treat until Mike Buck, chairman of the local estate agents’ association, decided to step in.

After hearing about their plight, he offered to pay for the buses and the theatre tickets for the children. The 420 children went to the theatre to see a performance of Pippi Longstocking on 12 December.

The tradition of taking the children to see the Christmas show was started by the school’s principal, Simon Smith. He said: “We’ve been going to the theatre at Christmas time for nine or ten years. I was really upset when we had to cancel something that we all love doing. With rising petrol costs the school simply could not afford it. Nor could our parents. It’s absolutely magnificent that Mike is sponsoring us.”

School children get their treat after all
Let's write

What problem did the children at Lakeview Primary School have?

What happened that solved the children’s problem?

A They went to a movie instead.
B A kind man donated money for the bus and theatre tickets.
C The parents and children had already paid for the tickets.

Why was their principal so upset?

A This was the first time the school would not take the children to the theatre as they had been doing for the past 10 years.
B The petrol price had gone up.
c The children were disappointed.

Which words in the story show that the businessman decided to help?

A magnificent
B plight
c step in

What word shows that the children went to the theatre every year?

A annual
B sponsoring
c treat

Where does the article come from?

Why is the headline written in big, bold, bright colours?

The first paragraph should answer questions such as who, what, when, why and where. Write down the questions that the first paragraph in this article answers.
You have been asked to create a poster for the play Pippi Longstocking. Make sure the poster has:

- the name of the play
- a picture that tells us more about the play
- who is acting in the play
- where and when the play will be held
- the cost of the tickets
- colour
- different kinds of lettering
- big bold letters
Look at the picture and then complete the sentences using:

- this
- these
- those
- that

- is the Grade 5 class at Buffalo Primary School.
- are the children in my class.
- Look at the girl. She is fast asleep!
- is the teacher at the back of the class.
- are my glasses but Brian is wearing them!
- are the activities we do in the class.

Now write your own sentences using:

- those
- these
- that
- this

128 Let’s write a story 135
Writes the story.
Once there was a lion without a roar. The lion had always been this way; he had never been able to roar. But the other animals did not know this. From an early age he realised he could not roar. He had learnt to talk softly to everyone, and to listen to them. He learned to convince others of his point of view without having to raise his voice. This won him the affection and trust of all the other animals.

But one day the lion spoke to a pig who was so stupid and stubborn that the lion could not find a way to make the pig understand. He felt a strong urge to roar at the pig, but the fact that he could not made him feel weak. He wanted to solve this problem, so he spent a few months inventing a roaring machine which he could use whenever he needed it. A short while after completing the roaring machine, the stupid, stubborn pig turned up. He annoyed the lion so much that the lion used the machine. It sent out a truly terrifying roar.

"GRRRRRRRRROAUUUUUUURRRRR!!!"

Not only did this give the pig a terrible fright, but it also shocked all the other animals. They were so frightened that for months none of them dared to come out of their homes. The lion became sad and lonely. He realised that he didn’t need to roar in order to get others to pay attention to him. Without knowing it, his lack of a roar had made him good at talking and listening to others and convincing them.

So, little by little, by using a kind, pleasant tone of voice, he managed to restore the animals’ trust in him. Never did he consider using his roaring machine again.
Find words in the story that have the same meaning as the words or phrases below. Then write the words from the story in your dictionary.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>persuade or influence</th>
<th>belief in</th>
<th>obstinate</th>
<th>very scary</th>
<th>absence</th>
<th>bring back</th>
<th>think about</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Read the passage again and then write answers to these questions.

What made the lion in this story different from other lions?

How did the lion talk to the other animals?

Why did the lion make a machine that roared?

What did the other animals do after the lion used the machine?

What lesson did the lion learn?

The story about the lion teaches us a lesson. What lesson does it teach us?
The lion learnt an important lesson. It is better to talk to people than to shout at people. Brainstorm ideas by completing the mind map to show why it is important to talk to people rather than shout at them.

Write two paragraphs about what happened when you shouted at somebody because you lost your temper. Use your mind map to help you.

In the first paragraph say why you shouted at someone.

In the second paragraph say what happened and how the person reacted when you shouted.

Write a draft of your paragraphs in your exercise book. Ask a friend to help you edit them. Once you have corrected the paragraphs, write the final draft below.
Complete this table. Make plural words from the singular words.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Singular</th>
<th>Plural</th>
<th>Singular</th>
<th>Plural</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>lion</td>
<td>machine</td>
<td>animal</td>
<td>problem</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>pig</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

What did you do to make the words plural?

Underline the adverbs of time in the paragraph below, and then use three of the adverbs in sentences of your own.

The lion met the animals yesterday to listen to their problems. He had appointments to see them today and tomorrow. However, they also wanted an appointment now and then another appointment at night.

Rewrite the sentences using the adverb of frequency correctly.

The lion listens to the animals. (often)

They take his advice. (sometimes)

The lion roars. (never)

The animals are friendly. (usually)

They have discussions in the evening. (never)
An interesting atlas

Look at the book covers and talk to your friend about them.

- What books do you enjoy reading?
- Do you buy books or do you borrow books from your local library?
- Does your school have a library?
- If it doesn’t have a library, do you think it should have one? Say why.

Atlases for everyone

If you buy only two books while you are at school, the Shosholoza World Atlas should be one.

The first few pages of the atlas give you information that explains the world. There is information about space, the seasons, the reasons for day and night – just what you need when your memory gets a bit rusty!

There is a summary of South African history, from the earliest time right up to the present. There are also maps on climate, environmental problems, and many other topics.

What makes the Shosholoza World Atlas different is that two thirds of the atlas is about Africa. This is great if you are interested in Africa. It’s a problem if you want to find out about other parts of the world. There is only one page each on Europe, Asia, the Americas and Australia.

The Shosholoza World Atlas is a bargain at R150,00.

The section on environmental issues provides interesting information and uses pictures and maps to do so.

It covers problems like the ozone layer, acid rain and threatened animal species. There is also more cheerful information about alternative energy.

I have only one problem with this book. It does not give much information about any one topic. But it is very useful for school libraries. It can also be used for project work, speeches and group activities.
Choose the best meaning for the words in bold. Write the words in bold in your dictionary.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>information</th>

<td>endangered</td>
<td>safe</td>
<td>loomed</td>
<td>exposed</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>alternative</td>
<td>substitute</td>
<td>unusual</td>
<td>replacement</td>
<td>change</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Read the book review again and then write answers to these questions.

What topics do you think the atlas covers? What continent does it focus on?

What do the first few pages of the atlas contain?

The reviewer includes the statement that there is more cheerful information about alternative energy. What do you think most of the information covers?

What does the reviewer feel is a problem about the atlas?

What topics does the Shosholoza World Atlas cover?

If you were asked to do a project on the Industrial Revolution, would this atlas be useful? Give reasons for your answer.

In what way will the atlas help you “when your memory gets a bit rusty”?

You are told that if you buy only two books while you are at school, the atlas should be one of them. What other book would you buy? Say why.
Term 4 – Weeks 5 – 6

Writing a review

A reporter for the Cape Argus wants to write an article for the paper. However, she has left out the prepositions. Fill them in for her so she can complete her piece of writing.

It is five o’clock _________________ the morning _________________ 9 March.
Hundreds of cyclists are waiting _________________ the moment _________________ the centre of Cape Town for the start of the Cape Argus cycle race.
The gun fires and thousands of cyclists head out of Cape Town _________________ Simonstown. _________________ the way, volunteers are laden _________________ bottles of water to help prevent dehydration.
_______________ the race hundreds of spectators line the streets, cheering the riders. The race is not only about winning – it is about people and their desire to complete something special.

Let’s write

Use can and may in this dialogue between two friends.

Candice: _________________ I come and visit you after school?

Fatima: Of course you _________________ . Have you asked your mother for permission?

Candice: Not yet. _________________ I use your phone to phone her?

Fatima: You _________________ but I don’t have any minutes left!

Candice: Do you think I _________________ ask the shopkeeper if I _________________ use his phone?

Fatima: There’s no harm in trying. Let’s see what he says!

The word can is used to show ability.

e.g. Can you ride a bicycle?

The word may is used to ask permission.

May I leave the table, please?
Write a review of a book you have read. Use the book you have read and the frame below to help you write the review.

Name of book

Author

How does the book begin?

How does it end?

Do you think other children would enjoy the book? Say why.

Do you remember the writing process?
First plan your review by jotting down notes in your exercise book.
Write your first draft.
Give it to a friend or your teacher to edit.
Finally, rewrite it neatly.
Tami wanted to play in the orchestra at the community centre, but she was nervous. She thought the music would be too difficult. The first day she was so nervous she could hardly tune the strings of her musical instrument. The only orchestra she had ever played in was the one at school. After a few rehearsals she was comfortably playing along with everyone else. She realised that there was no reason to be nervous and she began to enjoy herself.

At rehearsals, Tami became friendly with Vusi, who sat next to her. Vusi was always helpful. Tami was not embarrassed to ask him questions about music. Vusi’s parents were musicians. They had started teaching Vusi music when he was only five years old. Tami couldn’t imagine playing the violin at that age. Vusi told her that many famous musicians started playing when they were very young.

Another orchestra member who became a friend of Tami’s was Marie. Marie played the clarinet. After rehearsal Marie would tell her funny stories. Marie said that when she played her clarinet at home as a child, it squeaked so much that she got the nickname Squeaky. That was a long time ago. Now Marie had a beautiful tone on the clarinet. Sometimes, just to make Tami laugh, Marie made her clarinet squeak. Even though Marie was older than Tami, the two became very good friends.

The orchestra was rehearsing music for the spring concert. Tami liked all the composers but Mozart was her favourite. Some of her friends at school didn’t understand why she liked Mozart. They promised to come to the spring concert anyway. Tami looked forward to the event and hoped that it would not rain the night of the concert.

On the night of the spring concert, Tami was very excited. She had never played for such a large audience before. Both Vusi and Marie told her that she would have a lot of fun. The conductor, who usually seemed so calm, appeared to be nervous. Tami was quite surprised because he had been to big cities all over the world for at least forty years. After the concert was over, the conductor seemed pleased. He praised the members of the orchestra for their fine performance.
Draw a line to match each word in bold with its meaning. Write the words in bold in your dictionary.

- nervous
- complimented
- rehearsals
- ill at ease, uncomfortable
- embarrassed
- concert
- praised
- practice sessions
- performance
- worried, anxious

Which group of words best describes Tami at the beginning of the passage?

| A | eager to make new friends |
| B | afraid she will mess up |
| C | excited to try new things |
| D | uninterested in playing |

Compared to Marie, Tami is

| A | bigger |
| B | wiser |
| C | faster |
| D | younger |

What might explain why Tami did not want it to rain?

| A | Tami couldn’t walk to the concert in the rain. |
| B | The concert was about springtime. |
| C | Tami’s friends didn’t like the rain. |
| D | The concert was going to be held outside. |

Which word best describes Marie?

| A | gloomy |
| B | funny |
| C | naughty |
| D | thrifty |

Why were Tami’s friends going to go to the concert?

| A | Her friends enjoyed classical music. |
| B | They wanted to show her that they cared. |
| C | They wanted to learn to play the violin. |
| D | They wanted to make new friends. |

Which word from the passage is a compound word?

| A | orchestra |
| B | rehearsal |
| C | conductor |
| D | nickname |

What will most likely happen to Tami?

| A | Tami will play in many more concerts. |
| B | Tami and Vusi will stop being friends. |
| C | Tami will become a conductor. |
| D | Tami and Marie will start their own orchestra. |
Underline the main idea in each paragraph of the story in the previous worksheet. Now, write a summary of the story. Follow these steps.

1. Give your summary a heading.
2. Write an introductory sentence for your summary.
3. Use the main ideas that you underlined to complete your summary.

Let’s write

You are going to write an essay about a concert you have been to. It could be a concert at your school, at your church, or at a big stadium. First plan your essay. You are going to use your plan to write your final essay later.
Now write notes for your essay on some rough paper and then write you essay neatly on this page. Don’t forget to give your essay a heading.

Write sentences using these words taken from the previous worksheet.

- nervous
- embarrassed
- helpful
- calm
- excited
Today we had some weather

1. Today we had some weather like I’ve never seen before, so I pulled on my galoshes and I headed out the door.

2. It sprinkled, first so lightly, it could easily be mist.
   A tornado then came dancing by, it swung and did the twist.

3. The fogbanks opened up their vaults and let out all their fogs, and the dog pound took a pounding; it was raining cats and dogs.

4. It started raining buckets, then the rain came down in sheets.
   I had never seen so many sheets and buckets in the streets.

5. I’d planned to watch the weather and, though gallantly I tried, when it started hailing taxis I gave up and went inside.

Autumn’s chores

Summer’s getting drowsy now; Soon she will be dozing; Flowers are folding up their heads, Another season’s closing.

Autumn’s waiting in the wings, Impatient to get going, He has a lot of work to do, Before it’s time for snowing.

"I have to paint the leaves,” he says, "In shades of red and gold, And send the birds along their way Before it gets too cold

Sunshiny days will be shorter now; I’ll add a cool, crisp breeze; For this relief from summer heat, I make no apologies.

I have just one more thing to do; My work is almost done; I’ll turn the leaves to crunchy piles, So kids can have autumn fun!”

Joanna Fuchs
Read the poem 'Autumn chores' again and then answer these questions.

What season of the year is the poem about? Tick the answer.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Spring</th>
<th>Autumn</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Summer</td>
<td>Winter</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Write down two lines from the poem that support your answer.

What is going to happen to summer?

What do you think the phrase “waiting in the wings” means?

What colours do leaves turn before they fall off trees?

What will autumn do to the leaves to make it fun for children?

What is a “chore”? Do you have chores to do?

Read the poem “Autumn’s chores” out loud with your partner.

Did you notice that some words rhyme? In which lines do you find the rhyming words?

Now beat out the first verse of the poem. The beat of a poem is called the metre. We show the metre by using stressed (/) and unstressed syllables (˘). We have done the first line for you. Study it, then show the metre of all the other lines.

Summer’s getting drowsy now;
Soon she will be dozing;
Flowers are folding up their heads;
Another season’s closing.

A verse is a group of lines in a poem. Some poems have one verse, some poems have many verses. The poem “Autumn’s chores” has five verses.
Writing a story

Look back to your mind map and notes for writing a story. Fill in your ideas here before writing your first draft.

Write the first draft of your story. Ask a friend or your teacher to edit it for you.
Now write your story neatly below.
Discuss these questions in your group.

Are you always tired?
Do you find it hard to sleep at night?
Are you too busy or tired to eat three meals a day?
Do you always feel cross?
Do you get headaches and tummy aches?

If so

You need to live a healthier life

Exercise every day! Run, cycle, take the dog for a walk!
Feel the air! Fresh air makes you think clearly.
Stoke up your body! Your body is like a machine that needs fuel to move. Eat healthy foods: vegetables, fruit, chicken, fish, eggs, milk, nuts, legumes, cheese and porridge.
Sleep soundly! You need at least 10 hours of sleep a night to think clearly and do well at school.
Water is life! Drink water, water and more water! Leave the cola, lemonade and juice! Your body needs water and lots of it. It also keeps you clean and smelling good.
Take care of your teeth! Brush your teeth at least twice a day and properly. Always floss them first!

Write the words in bold in your dictionary.

- stoke: engine
- machine: food; energy
- fuel: correctly
- properly: clean teeth using dental tape or ribbon
- floss: provide fuel; make stronger
Let’s write

Read the pamphlet again and then write down the answers to these questions.

Why do you think the pamphlet was written?

If you answered “yes” to all the questions the pamphlet asks, what should you do?

What do you think are the three healthiest things you need to do to keep healthy? Write them down and then say why you think they are important.

Why do you think “Are you healthy” and “Then you need to live a healthier life” are written in bigger letters than the rest of the pamphlet?

Do you think the pictures support the information in the pamphlet? Say why.

If it didn’t matter what you ate, what foods would you choose? Say why.

Explain in your own words why your body is like a machine and needs fuel to move. Then say what your body is being compared to.

Let’s clean the environment

Look at the picture and then talk to your friend about it.

- Is the place where you live clean or dirty? Explain your answer.
- Do you think it is important to keep the place where you live clean? Say why.

Spring is in the air and while people enjoy the sunshine, Plastics SA is encouraging the public to start their annual spring-cleaning by looking at their environment first.

“We are calling on all South Africans to help keep our country beautiful during September,” says Douw Steyn, Environmental Director of Plastics SA. Local communities, schools and groups throughout South Africa are encouraged to plan and host their own clean-up and recycling activities during Clean-Up South Africa Week, which will take place from 12 to 17 September.

Clean Up South Africa Week (12 to 17 Sept)

According to Steyn, the aim of Clean-Up South Africa Week is for everyone to make a difference by keeping South Africa clean and litter free. “The Clean-Up South Africa Week shows the importance of individual efforts. Each South African has a responsibility to help rid our country of litter and to recycle waste. Every piece of paper you pick up and every plastic wrapper you throw into the recycling bin makes a huge collective difference,” Steyn says.
International Coastal Clean-Up Day (17 Sept)
The highlight of Clean-Up South Africa Week will be the 26th Annual International Coastal Clean-Up Day which will take place on Saturday, 17 September.
“Plastics don’t litter, people do. Plastics should not be in the oceans, and marine litter is not acceptable,” says Steyn. “This year, organisers expect more than 20 000 volunteers to join us on our precious beaches and help us pick up anything and everything that wasn’t left there by nature.”
Steyn explains how important the clean-up is. “No matter where we live, we’re all connected to the ocean. Even litter that falls from our hands hundreds of kilometres away, may eventually find its way to the ocean,” he says.

Together we can solve the problem
Turning the tide on litter is one of the easiest ways to help protect our country. Together, we can solve the problem of litter lining our streets and waterways. When you volunteer your time and energy during September as part of Clean-Up South Africa Week, Recycling Day or the International Coastal Clean-Up Day, you will be joining a movement of individuals who are turning the tide on litter in our beautiful country.

Read the article again and then write down the answers to these questions.

What is important about September?

What company wants South Africans to volunteer their help?

According to Douw Steyn, if you help pick up pieces of paper you can make a huge difference to the environment. Why do you think it can make a difference?

What is happening on 17 September?

According to Douw Steyn our beaches are precious. Why do you think they are precious?

What is one of the easiest ways of keeping our environment clean?

What do you do when people throw litter on the streets?

Give the article a heading.

Now write sentences of your own using for and because of:

________

Let’s do

Work with a partner. Read a verse of the poem to your partner. Then listen to your partner read the other verse.

The leaky tap drips day and night
Just fix it right or shut it tight.
It seems the earth with water abounds
But really it’s every drop that counts.
The tap is on, you brush your teeth
The water flows, you soap your feet.

Just think of all the water lost.
To close the tap, what does it cost?
The water bottle you take to school
The water in it is nice and cool.
You drink a bit, the rest you throw.
The water could help a plant to grow.

From CEE - The Green Teacher
Read the poster. The poster says that you need to pick up your own rubbish.

Now make your own poster for your school or community building, in which you encourage everyone not to litter.

Make people aware of your school’s playground. Is there litter? What kind of litter is there? Does someone take the litter away? Who takes it away?

Ask people to do something about the litter. You could use one of these phrases: Put the litter in a rubbish bin! Don’t leave other children’s litter on the ground! If there is no dustbin, put your litter in a bag! Don’t throw litter out of a taxi!

It's not someone else's responsibility to pick up our litter.

IT'S OUR RESPONSIBILITY

Please! Put your litter in the bin.
Soccer is the most widely played sport in South Africa. For many South Africans, the country’s proudest sporting moment came when we won the African Nations Cup on home turf in 1996.

Soccer is intensely followed, and the quality of the local game keeps improving – as shown by the increasing number of South African players playing for glamorous European clubs.

Local teams are followed with passion by whistling and cheering fans.

There’s probably no quicker way to break the ice with the South African on the street than to show some knowledge of local soccer.

In 1992, two years before the country’s first democratic election, the united South African team was formed and played Cameroon in its first match in Durban on the 9th of July. It was a triumphant occasion for the team, as they beat the West African powerhouse by one goal to nil.

When South Africa hosted the 1996 African Nations Cup, they proved they belonged in the finals by defeating Tunisia 2–0 in the final. It was during the team’s run to the title that its nickname, “Bafana Bafana”, became known around the world.
Read the report again and then write down the answers to these questions.

Who wrote the report?

According to the writer, what is the best way to make friends with a South African?

When did the name Bafana Bafana became known around the world?

Look at the poster.

Who is it aimed at?

What skills do players get during soccer practice?

Do you think all children would be able to attend? Give a reason for your answer.

What is the motto of the club?

What does the motto mean?

Do you think the poster is a good one? Give a reason for your answer.

What part of the poster did you read first? Say why.

Write an essay of about three paragraphs about your hobby. Use the following frame to write your essay. Include any pictures or diagrams that you think could give your readers a better understanding of your hobby.

First plan your essay. Then ask your friend to edit it for you. Correct it if necessary. Use this mind map to plan your essay.

My hobby is _______________________________

When I first became interested in my hobby

What it involves (rules)

Why I chose it as my hobby
Imagine that you are playing a soccer match (or any other match) at the moment. Write two sentences about the game, using the present continuous tense. Then underline all the verbs you have used, in blue.

Now imagine that you are going to play the game tomorrow. Write the same information but now in the future tense. Underline all the future tense verbs you have used in red.

Look around the classroom and write four sentences about what is happening. Underline all the verbs.

Now write four sentences about what you are going to do in the holidays. Underline the each time you use the word “will”.
Preparation to write a story

What stories do you like to read? Tell your friend what kind of story you like the most. Is it a fairy tale? Or perhaps you like stories about famous people? Do you like stories about different places? Or do you like stories that are about real things?

Use this mind map to plan your story. Then tear out the cut out page to write your story. After you have removed the page, complete the story organiser on page 135.
