We, the people of South Africa,

Recognise the injustices of our past;
Respect those who have worked to build and develop our country;
Honour those who suffered for justice and freedom in our land;
Believe that South Africa belongs to all who live in it, united in our diversity.

We therefore, through our freely elected representatives, adopt this Constitution as the supreme law of the Republic so as to:

Heal the divisions of the past and establish a society based on democratic values, social justice and fundamental human rights;
Lay the foundations for a democratic and open society in which government is based on the will of the people and every citizen is equally protected by law;
Improve the quality of life of all citizens and free the potential of each person, and
Build a united and democratic South Africa able to take its rightful place as a sovereign state in the family of nations.

May God protect our people.

These workbooks have been developed for the children of South Africa under the leadership of the Minister of Basic Education, Mrs Angie Motshekga, and the Deputy Minister of Basic Education, Dr Reginah Mhaule. The Rainbow Workbooks form part of the Department of Basic Education’s range of interventions aimed at improving the performance of South African learners in the first six grades. As one of the priorities of the Government’s Plan of Action, this project has been made possible by the generous funding of the National Treasury. This has enabled the Department to make these workbooks, in all the official languages, available at no cost. We hope that teachers will find these workbooks useful in their everyday teaching and in ensuring that their learners cover the curriculum. We have taken care to guide the teacher through each of the activities by the inclusion of icons that indicate what it is that the learner should do. We sincerely hope that children will enjoy working through the book as they grow and learn, and that you, the teacher, will share their pleasure.

We wish you and your learners every success in using these workbooks.

GUIDELINES FOR USING THIS WORKBOOK

We wish to welcome you to the intermediate phase Home Language Workbook. The Home Language level for the intermediate phase is intended to develop learners' language proficiency in the communication skills required in social situations, and to develop their cognitive academic skills essential for learning across the curriculum. We hope that you will find this Workbook useful in assisting your learners to develop these competences.

The Workbook is organised according to the two-week cycles of the CAPS. You will find the overview of what will be covered in each of the two week cycles on pages 1, 35, 69 and 103 of this Workbook. Each 2-week cycle is packaged to include the following four language skills:

1. Listening and Speaking (Oral) – 2 hours per 2-week cycle
   Learners need frequent opportunities to develop their Listening and Speaking skills to enable them to collect information, solve problems and express ideas and opinions. The Workbook contains a number of speaking and listening activities which you can extend upon to ensure that learners have regular opportunities for oral practise.

2. Reading and Viewing – 5 hours per 2-week cycle
   The CAPS require learners to read and view specific texts and genres in each 2-week cycle. This includes reading: short stories, folklore, personal recounts, letters, e-mails, diary entries, drama, newspaper articles, magazine articles, radio interviews, poetry, persuasive texts, advertisements, instructions, directions and procedures. In addition, the CAPS require learners to read information text with visuals: maps, charts, tables, diagrams, mind maps, weather charts, posters, notices, pictures and graphs. You will find a good selection of these types of texts in the Workbook.

   The CAPS specify a process for reading comprising of pre-reading, reading and post reading stages. You will find a useful graphic explanation of the ‘reading process’ in the inner front cover of this book.

3. Writing and Presenting – 4 hours per 2-week cycle
   The CAPS require learners to have frequent opportunities to practise writing across a range of contexts. The Workbook provides a number of writing frames and organisers to scaffold learners’ presentations of written, visual and multi-media texts. You will find a graphic explanation of the ‘writing process’ in the back inner cover of the Workbook.

4. Language Structures and Conventions – 1 hour per 2-week cycle
   The CAPS provide a list of Language Structures and Conventions (items) that should be covered in each grade. The Workbook includes specific exercises for each of the 2-week cycles. Usually these activities include a ‘note’ explaining the language convention.

For further guidance please consult the Workbook Training Manual.

New New Town school

Jan Roux – Education Reporter

The Honourable Minister of Education opened a new primary school in New Town on Monday at an opening ceremony.

The minister informed guests that a new school had been built in the province to accommodate the growing number of children. She said that, “the population in the area has grown considerably since the mine opened in New Town and families have moved to the area in search of work.”

Because people had migrated to the area from across the country, the school would teach in English. Special efforts would, however, be made to ensure that learners continued to learn to speak, read and write in their home languages (Sepedi, isiXhosa, isiZulu and Afrikaans).

The residents were thrilled by the development of the school and parents joined the minister for a tree-planting ceremony. They have plans to develop a school library and school gardens.

Smiling 12-year-old Thandi Khosa said, “I am so excited to be starting Grade 6 in a new school. I will put new effort into my work.”

Up in smoke

Jaba Dube News Reporter

City bus went up in smoke after an electrical fault caused a bus to burn.

Four days ago, the passengers on board the Sunhill bus had to evacuate it through the rear door and by breaking the emergency window at the back of the bus.

“We were lucky to get our school bags from the bus,” said a relieved Sbu Ndidi.

Passengers were left stranded as the bus company was not able to send an alternative bus.

The city bus company will be servicing all its buses to ensure that this problem does not recur.
What a beating!

On Tuesday, Super Girls’ Mary Sithole scored two goals while Anna Smith and Louise Parker each added another, enabling the Super Girls to give the Western Warriors a 4-0 hiding at New Town Stadium.

“It was really important for us,” the coach said. “The past two years we’ve played them, they’ve beaten us, so it was satisfying finally to have that victory.”

So how does a team go from losing against an old foe to delivering a 4-0 thrashing? According to the Super Girls coach, look no further than the defence – which limited the Western Warriors to just three shots on goal.

“Even though our captain was injured, we played our reserves and they did an excellent job,” the coach said.

“This win has really motivated us!” said Mary Sithole. “Whenever we play so well together, it feels like we can beat any team.”

Boy rescues toddler

A three-year-old girl was pulled from a river by a schoolboy, Dumisani Mkize, a learner at the New Town Primary School in KwaZulu-Natal.

Two days ago, the toddler had been left in the care of her eight-year-old sister who became distracted when the toddler wandered off to the river. Mrs Dlamini of the Department of Social Development says that children must always be supervised by a responsible adult.

Newspapers often use photographs. Look at the gestures of these people and then match the caption with the picture. Fill in the correct numbers.

1. Laduma! We are the winners!
2. I don’t want to go to school!
3. Why do I always have to do homework?
4. You need to eat fresh fruit and vegetables and cut out fats.
5. It is important for children to read every day.
6. I am so happy!

Good evening. This is ______________ with today’s news.
Plan your own newspaper article. Discuss the questions on the mind map with your partner.

Write your own newspaper article in the space provided. Give your newspaper a name. Make up a catchy heading and then write your news, using the notes you made in the mind map. When you have done this, swop your article with a few others in the class and see who has the most interesting news.

WRITE A NEWS ARTICLE
- Develop a catchy headline.
- First paragraph: In your first one or two sentences, you should tell your reader who, what, when, where, and why. Try to attract the reader’s attention by beginning with a funny, clever or surprising statement.
- Middle paragraphs: Give the reader the complete details. Include one or two quotes from people you interviewed. Use inverted commas to show what they say.
- Last paragraph: End with a quote or a catchy phrase.
Let's write

Subjects and verbs work together. In a correct sentence, the subject and verb agree in terms of number. This means that if you have a singular subject, the verb must also be in the singular form, and if the subject is plural, the verb must also be in the plural form. Look at these examples.

1. The boy digs a hole. (One boy)
2. The boys dig a hole. (More than one boy)

Make each subject agree with its verb. Underline the subject and then select the verb that matches the subject.

2. The girl play/plays netball for the first team.
3. The two boys drive/drives each others’ toy cars.
4. She go/goes to New Town School.
5. We play/plays in the under-12 soccer team.
6. The team is/are the best in the province.

Change these sentences into questions. We have started some for you.

She was playing alone at the river when she fell into the water.

Was she

The girls trained hard to win the game.

Did they

He read the newspapers last night.

Did he

They ran in a race yesterday.

Did they

The Minister of Education opened the new primary school in New Town.

The passengers had to evacuate the bus through the rear window.

They were playing soccer when it rained.

The team won the match.

It started to rain after the soccer match.

Interrogatives are questions. Remember to end the sentence with a question mark.

Interrogatives are questions.
We are now going to look at pronouns.
Underline the personal pronoun in each of these sentences.

| I am at school. | We are children. |
| She is a girl. | You are my best friend. |
| He is a boy. | They are playing soccer. |
| It is a daffodil. | We are eating our lunch. |

Let’s write

Now look at this longer list of personal pronouns and then underline them in the sentences below.

<table>

We know what personal pronouns are. There are also other kinds of pronouns, such as reflexive pronouns. Look at the table on the right to see what they are.

Look at the following sentences and underline the personal pronouns and the reflexive pronouns.

- You must enjoy yourself during the holidays.
- She is able to dress herself now that she is four years old.
- She hurt herself when she fell from the tree.
- I help myself to food at home.
- They care for themselves when their parents are at work.
Schoolgirl saves boy’s life

E Smith. News Reporter
Monday 27 February 2015

Young swimmer to the rescue

Bongi Shabalala, a 12-year-old Grade 5 pupil at Fundani Primary School, rescued a schoolboy who was drowning in a dam. Eight-year-old Michael Naidoo was swimming in the Rough Dam near the school on Friday afternoon. According to reports, the Grade 3 boy was trying to dive from a tree but hit his head on a branch before falling into the water. Bongi, who was on her way home from school, saw the boy floating in the dam. She immediately dived in to rescue him. She is the swimming captain at her school and she also has a certificate in first aid.

Bongi brought the boy to the shore and revived him. She knew how to do mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. The Red Cross says that life-saving techniques like this are not difficult but you must act quickly.

If someone stops breathing you must act immediately.

Fortunately, Bongi’s friend, Ann Brown, was also passing the scene of the accident. Her dog started to bark and she went to the site where Bongi was assisting the boy. She alerted the school principal, who called the rescue services.

Bongi will receive a reward for her bravery and for saving Michael Naidoo’s life.

The principal, Mrs Makhanya, said she had warned all the schoolchildren not to misbehave. They may not go to the dam on their own.

The principal has requested all children to attend both first aid and swimming classes.

Tell your partner, in the correct sequence, what was reported in the newspaper article.
Read the newspaper article and then answer these questions.

What is the newspaper headline?

What is the newspaper by-line?

On what date did this accident happen? (Hint: work it out from the date of the newspaper.)

What happened to Michael Naidoo? Write three sentences to explain what happened to him. Start your sentences as shown below.

1) First he

2) Then he

3) Eventually he

What two skills did Bongi have that saved Michael's life?

Look back at the newspaper article. Underline proper nouns (names of people and places) in red and the common nouns (names of things) in blue. Now fill in the nouns under the correct headings.

Reported speech

We use two sets of inverted commas if the name of the speaker is given in the middle of what is being said, like this:

- “I have asked you twice,” said mother, “to wash your plate.”
- “Please pick up the litter,” said the teacher. “The playground is very untidy.”

Let’s write

Fill in the inverted commas in these sentences.

1. Will you go to town by bike? asked Bongi.
2. Where is the soccer match on Saturday? asked Ann.
3. Have you seen the movie Shrek?
4. Are you going to read the book How Hare Tricked Lion and Crocodile?
5. I have to read a book called Children’s Play.
6. Finish your homework, called mother, or you can’t watch TV.
7. You are in trouble! shouted Thami. Your mother saw you doing that.
8. I am so tired, Mandu said. I am going to bed at 7 p.m.
9. That cake smells good, said Grandfather to Mandu, as she took it out of the oven.
10. I wish, Thandile said, that I knew who my teacher is going to be next year.

When we write about a film, DVD, video or book, we put its name in inverted commas, like this:

- I have seen the movie “Mad Buddies”.
- I have read “Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire”.

Rewrite these sentences in the present tense, as if all the actions are happening now.

Bongi rescued a schoolboy who was drowning in a dam.

The boy was trying to dive from a branch.

Bongi dived into the dam and brought the boy to the shore.
Look at the sentences below and remove those that are not about the topic. Then write out the paragraph in the space below. You will need to put the sentences into the right sequence.

Bongi rescued the boy. (topic sentence)

The boy dived into the dam.

Bongi saw the boy in the water.

The leaves are green.

He hit his head on a branch and fell into the water.

The dam is pretty.

Luckily Bongi walked past.

A good paragraph should have only one main idea or topic sentence (subject). The best place to mention the topic is in the first sentence. When you want to talk about another topic, you need to start a new paragraph.

Underline the main idea or topic in each sentence.

My friend misses the bus nearly every morning.

My cell phone fell and shattered.

I go to choir practice every second day.

I threw away the book because it was wet.
More than half the world’s children breathe in air polluted by tobacco smoke, and nearly 5% of all fires in South Africa are caused by cigarettes. The new anti-smoking laws offer additional protection for children.

The World Health Organization warns us that passive smoking (breathing in the smoke of someone else’s cigarette) is a serious health hazard, especially for children. The new South African smoking laws are intended to prevent people from smoking near children. This will protect them from harmful second-hand smoke which causes asthma, wheezing, bronchitis or other diseases of the lungs.

The new laws make it illegal to smoke in a car when travelling with children under 12 years of age, and no one under 18 is allowed into a smoking area.

In addition, the cigarette companies now have to put pictures on cigarette packets to show smokers how bad tobacco is for their health, and they may not use the terms “low tar”, “light” and “mild” about their cigarettes. Some cigarette companies print these terms on their packaging because it makes people think that “light” cigarettes are less harmful than regular cigarettes. But this is misleading. Light cigarettes do not reduce the risk of disease.

The National Council Against Smoking (NCAS) comments as follows: “The new legislation will have a big effect on public health. 22% of South Africans smoke and the other 78% do not like breathing in someone else’s tobacco smoke. Smoking is a leading cause of premature, preventable death. Tobacco kills 44 000 South Africans every year, and that is three times more than the number of people who die in car accidents.”
Let’s write

Read both news articles and then answer these questions.

What do these two news articles have in common?

How will the anti-smoking laws protect children?

Why is it misleading to say “light” on a cigarette packet?

Which experts are quoted in the anti-smoking article?

Which expert is quoted in the parrot article?

What is passive smoking?
(Hint: Look at the explanation between the brackets in the newspaper article.)

What does this cartoon suggest about smoking?
Talking about the news

Prepare a presentation to tell Grade 6 learners about the dangers of “passive smoking” and why it is unhealthy. Write down four main points that you will include in your talk. Check your presentation using the checklist on the opposite page.

Now make a poster to show that smoking near children is bad for them. When you have completed your poster, use the checklist on the opposite page to assess it.

One day Hare was walking along the beach when she saw Elephant and Whale talking. She wanted to hear what they were saying, so she lay down on the sand and listened carefully.

Whale was saying: “Elephant, you are the strongest animal on the Earth and I am the strongest animal in the Sea. If we work together we can get all the animals to do what we want.”

“Yes,” said Elephant, “you’re right! That’s a good idea. We should work together.”

But Hare said to herself, “I’m not going to let that happen. They won’t rule me. I will trick them.” Off she went, lippety, lippety, down the beach and into the forest. There she found a long, strong rope. She then went back down to the beach to speak to Whale.

“Whale,” she said, “you are a very strong animal. Can I ask you to help me?” “Yes,” said Whale, feeling pleased that he was being asked to help because he was so strong. “What can I do for you?”

“Well,” said Hare, “I have a cow stuck in the mud, back there in the forest. Can you help me pull her out?”

“Yes,” said Whale, “I will be happy to help you.”

So Hare tied the strong rope around Whale’s tail. She said, “I’ll just go and tie the other end to my cow. Wait until I beat my drum and then start pulling.” Hare left Whale at the beach and went off to find Elephant. “Elephant,” she said, “you are a very strong animal. Can I ask you to help me?”
“Yes, of course,” said Elephant, feeling pleased that he was being asked to help because he was so strong. “What can I do for you?”

“Well,” said Hare, “I have a cow stuck in the mud, back there in the forest. Can you help me pull her out?”

“Yes,” said Elephant, “I will be happy to help you. I am so strong I can pull out twenty cows!”

“Thank you,” said Hare, and she tied the other end of the strong rope around the trunk of Elephant. “I’ll just go and tie the other end to my cow. Wait until I beat my drum in the forest and then start pulling,” she said, and off she ran.

Inside the forest, Hare sat down and beat the big drum. Whale began to pull and Elephant began to pull and soon the rope was stretched very tight. Elephant took a little extra turn of rope around his trunk when he could, and so Whale found himself being pulled towards the beach. This made him very angry, so he dived deep into the sea. That was a pull! It made Elephant go sliding down the beach into the sea. Elephant became very angry, so he pulled his best. At the jerk on the rope, Whale came up out of the water.

“Who is pulling me?” spouted Whale.
“Who is pulling me?” trumpeted Elephant.
Then they saw they were each holding one end of the rope.
“You tricked me!” roared Elephant.
“I will teach you not to play the fool with me!” said Whale.

They began to pull the rope again. But this time the rope broke, and Whale and Elephant both fell over backwards. This made them so angry that they did not want to speak to each other again. So the two of them did not rule all the animals on the earth and all the animals in the sea. And Hare sat in the forest and laughed and laughed.
A fable is a story about magical creatures, animals, plants and places. It tells a story with a moral message. Many fables have animals that can speak and many have rabbits, hares and foxes that are stereotyped as cunning or who play tricks on the other characters. What is a stereotype?
Fill in 6 adjectives that describe the hare.

Use the adjectives to write a paragraph to describe the hare. Write the description in rough. Ask your friend to edit it and then write the revised description in the space provided.

Now describe your best friend’s character. Say why he or she is your best friend and what you like about him or her.
Look carefully at these eight pictures to see what the story is about.

Then work with a partner.

- Say what happens in each picture. This story is almost the same as the previous one.
- Now tell the story in the words of the animals. This means the story will consist of things the animals say.

Write your draft on rough paper, and ask your friend to check it.

Use these words to help you.

Discuss with your partner what you think the real meaning of each of the highlighted idioms is. Then write down what you think the idioms mean.

My father has green fingers. He grows the most enormous tomatoes.

My little sister spilt the beans. Now everyone knows my secret.

The room is so small, you can’t swing a cat.

I went to see a scary movie. My hair stood on end.

Then match these words with their antonyms. When you have done this, divide each word into its syllables.

Looking at idioms

All languages have common expressions that do not mean what they say. For example if we say “It was raining cats and dogs,” we mean that it is raining a lot.
There was once a man who was very rich. Unfortunately, he was also a very mean, nasty man. He was so mean and nasty that all the people in the village were afraid of him. No one dared to go near his house and no one dared to speak to him. One scorching hot day the mean man fell asleep in the shade under a tree outside his house. When he woke up he found a young man next to him, also enjoying the shade.

Rich man: What are you doing here? Go away, this is my shade!

Young man: This can’t be your shade. The tree belongs to the village.

Rich man: Huh! This tree and its shade belong to me!

Young man: Then sir, please sir, I would like to buy the shade of your tree.

Rich man: You can buy my shade for five pieces of gold.

Young man: Here you are, sir, take the gold. Thank you, sir. I am now the owner of this shade.

The mean man put the gold into his pocket, chuckled to himself and went back into his house.
Later the sun began to set and the shadow of the tree grew longer and longer until it covered the mean man’s house. Then the young man walked boldly into the house.

Rich man: What are you doing in my house? Get out of here, you stupid boy.

Young man: Sir, the shade of the tree covers this house, and the shade belongs to me. Now the house belongs to me as well.

In anger the mean man left the house forever and all the village people came to see his big house and enjoy the shade of the tree. And they praised the young man for helping them.

A folk tale from Japan

Let's talk

Do you think this is a true story? Why?

What are we supposed to learn from a story like this?

Why do you think people in the different countries of the world like to tell their children stories like these?

Let’s write

Read the story and then answer the questions.

Who are the characters in the story?

Why did the mean man chuckle to himself when he put the gold into his pocket?
Let’s do
In your groups, make up a role play about the story. You will find it easy to do because it is written like a play. However, you must give the story a new ending. Present your role play to the class. Decide which group has the best ending.

Let’s write
Circle the adjectives in each sentence. Then underline the nouns they describe.

<table>

Underline the adjective in each of the following sentences. Then write the antonym or opposite of the adjective in the space on the right. We have done the first one for you.

You know that a noun is the name of a person, a place or a thing. An adjective tells us more about a noun. Here is an example from the story: He was a nasty man.

What is a metaphor?

“He has a heart of ice” and “Her face was a picture” are both metaphors. One thing (a heart) is described by saying it is something else (ice). You do not use “as” or “like” in a metaphor. There are often metaphors in poems.

Say what each of these metaphors means. Draw a picture to illustrate one of them.

- He has a heart of gold.
- He is the shining star of our school.
- She has the heart of a lion.
- I do not like him because he is a shady character.
Underline the subject in each of these sentences. Then make the subject agree with its verb.

| 1. This dog is/are vicious. | This dog is vicious. |
| 2. These tomatoes is/are ripe. | |
| 3. Jabu and Peter is/are playing soccer. | |
| 4. The Grade 2 class is/are very noisy. | |
| 5. These cakes is/are delicious. | |
| 6. The children is/are late for school. | |
| 7. My tooth is/are hurting. | |
| 8. My mother is/are at the shop. | |
| 9. The soccer team is/are good. | |
| 10. This cheese is/are expensive. | |

Try these using the past tense. We use “was” for a singular subject and “were” if the subject is plural.

| 1. The boys was/were late for school. | The boys were late for school. |
| 2. The soccer team was/were on the bus. | |
| 3. The nurse was/were helping the patient. | |
| 4. The cakes was/were delicious. | |
| 5. The farmer was/were planting in the rain. | |
| 6. The horse was/were in the stable. | |
| 7. My feet was/were aching. | |
| 8. My parents was/were at church. | |
| 9. We was/were at the cinema. | |
| 10. The flock of sheep was/were in the field. | |
Match these proverbs with their meanings. Write the number of the correct answer next to the proverb.

The early bird gets the worm. 3
Better late than never. 1
Birds of a feather flock together. 4
There's no place like home. 7
Cleanliness is next to godliness. 6
You can't judge a book by its cover. 8
Two heads are better than one. 9
Never look a gift horse in the mouth. 5
The grass is always greener on the other side of the hill. 2

We use the when we are talking about a specific thing, place or person.
Example: “Please return the book that you borrowed from the library yesterday.”

Indefinite article (a/an)
We use a or an when we are not referring to a specific thing or person.
Example: “I bought a phone at a cellphone shop.”

Now fill in a, an or the.
We have done the first one for you.

The boy with the red hair arrived late today. (specific boy)
I have an apple. (any apple)
Please can I have the book you borrowed from me? (specific book)

Theme 2: Persuasion and poetry

Persuasive text
Term 1: Weeks 5 – 6

17 Reading adverts
- Read an advertisement.
- Focus on emotive text, graphics, and techniques such as promises and ways of evoking an emotional response.
- Identify target audience and persuasive methods.
- Relate target group to style and register.
- Answer questions on the advertisement and identifies conventions and techniques.

18 Designing my own advertisement
- Discussion about techniques for advertising.
- Discussion on tips for advertising.
- Complete a flow chart to design an advertisement. Discussion about ways to persuade readers.
- Compile an advert following all prewriting stages: brainstorming, planning, drafting, editing and presenting the advert.

19 Design a travel brochure
- Plan and draft a Z-card travel brochure for tourism to South Africa.
- Brainstorm ideas with group.
- Use writing process: brainstorming, planning, drafting, editing and presenting.
- Use a given frame to assist in logical sequencing.
- Design a brochure that gives relevant contact information and costs.
- Prepare and presents cut-out brochure neatly.
- Record new words and meanings in personal dictionary.

20 Planning a pamphlet
- Design own pamphlet

21 Linking language
- Introduction to simple and complex sentences.
- Introduction to conjunctions. Subject and predicate.
- Identify the subject and the predicate in simple and complex sentences.

22 Persuading
- Discussion on occasions when persuasive arguments are used. Reads persuasive arguments focusing on target group, presentation and build-up of arguments.

23 Writing a persuasive argument
- Plan the presentation using a mind map and organise.
- Follow the writing process: brainstorming, planning, drafting, editing and presenting.
- Test the arguments by way of a debate or speech.
- Write the argument neatly using a frame.

24 Poetic and other devices
- Introduction to poetic devices including metaphor, similes, antonyms, onomatopoeia, consonance, assonance, hyperbole.
- They are all covered here and not in weeks 9 – 10 due to space considerations. Teachers can refer back to this worksheet in weeks 9 – 10.

25 A dialogue late at night
- Introductory activities including prediction, using visual cues to predict text.
- Focus on speakers’ body language, language, content and register.
- Discuss format of text.
- Attribute the text to the speakers.

26 Oh no Mr Lion!
- Read the story. Focuses on the speakers and what they say.
- Complete a comprehension activity based on the meaning of the text. Role play the story with a narrator and the different speakers.

27 Planning a play
- Use an organiser to design a play. Identify title, characters, scene or setting, narration and message.

28 Reporting on what they say
- Use quotation marks in reported speech.
- Form complex sentences.
- Use antonyms and synonyms.

Pages of poetry
Term 1: Weeks 9 – 10

29 The fun in poetry
- Read a poem, “A bad case of sneezes”, out aloud.
- Feel the rhythm, and claps to the beat.
- Focus on the rhyming words.
- Write a rhyming poem.
- Follow the writing process: brainstorming, planning, drafting, editing and presenting.

30 A praise poem for South Africa
- Talk about praise songs as a genre.
- Relate the song to daily life.
- Fill in a mind map on South Africa.
- Write a praise poem for South Africa.
- A fun poem about the moon that teachers can use if they wish.

31 Poems around the sun
- Prereading activity to contextualise the poem.
- Read an information poem.
- Comprehension based on the content of the poem – to be filled into a space chart.
- Introduction of personification.

32 Write a poem
- Write a poem following the writing process: brainstorming, planning, drafting, editing and presenting.
- Interpret metaphors, defines and draws them.
- Teachers can revert to worksheet 24 for a full complement of poetic devices.
Reading adverts

Cool kids’ gear from Gear Store

Do you want to be popular?

Every young star wants to look cool at school.

Did you hear?

Get going to Gear Store for cool gear to wear.

Special offers for kids in Grade 6. Buy one, get one free!

Offer valid while stocks last.

Let’s write

Look carefully at the advertisement. Discuss answers to the following questions with your friends. Then fill in the answers to the questions.

What age group does this advert target?

5–7 years  11–13 years  14–16 years  21–25 years

Why do you say this?

Why does the advert have a funky heading?
Look at these two sentences from the advert. Underline the sounds that are repeated.

Every young star wants to look cool at school.

Did you hear? Get going to Gear Store for cool gear to wear.

How many Gs are there in “Get going to Gear Store for cool gear”? ___

How many As are there in “Appealing, Admired, Accepted”? ___

Why do you think the advert has the slogan Be popular! Be cool!?

What promises does the advert make if you buy products from Gear Store?

What does the fine print at the bottom of the advert tell us?

What does the advert persuade readers to do?

We call the repetition of the first sounds of words “alliteration”. Examples are: Peter Piper picked a piece of pickled pepper.
Designing my own advert

Let’s talk
Make up a role play to advertise a product or service on TV.

Let’s write
Plan your own advertisement by filling in answers to each of the questions in this mind map. When you have completed your plan, write and draw the advert neatly on the opposite page.

Some TIPS for writing persuasive text:
- Know your target audience.
- Use slogans and catch phrases to attract attention – e.g. “Have a break – have a KIT KAT.”
- Use pictures and visuals to make the advertisement eye-catching and memorable.
- Use figurative language such as alliteration, repetition and rhyme. (See worksheet 24 for more help on these.)
- Present your work neatly and legibly.

My advert

1. Who is the target group?
2. What is your product?
3. What slogan will you use?
4. What technique will you use to evoke an emotional response from the target group?
5. How will you attract the reader’s attention?
6. What does the advert promise?
7. Is the advert honest?
8. Did you use any language devices such as alliteration? (See worksheet 24 for more help on this.)
Let's write

Design your advertisement in the space provided.

Design a travel brochure

Let’s talk

Look at the pictures and say which of these important South African landmarks you have seen or heard about. What other important sites do you know of? Are there any sites where you live that are important and interesting, such as the former home of an important person, a stadium, a game park or a beautiful landscape?

Let’s do

Tear out the opposite page and fold it to form a Z-Card brochure.

Design the brochure to advertise an interesting South African site that tourists would like to see. It could be a heritage site, such as the former home of an important person, a stadium, an old or interesting building, a museum, a national zoo or garden, a rain forest, or Table Mountain.

You will need to use persuasive language to encourage people to visit the site.

Your front page should have a South African map and a catch phrase or slogan – for example, “A land of history and excitement!”

On each of the other pages draw a picture and write a description of what they will see. Remember to include:
- the address of the site,
- entry fees, and
- opening times.

Before you read

- Look at the pictures and headings and try to predict what the text will be about.
- Skim the page to see what you will read about.

While you read

- Compare your predictions with what you read. If you don’t understand a section, read it again slowly. Read it aloud.

Plan your brochure on page 43
TEACHER: Sign                Date

FRONT PAGE: fold forward

BACK PAGE: for general information such as your phone number, address and e-mail address.
Planning a pamphlet

Design your pamphlet. Fill in the mind map. Each number refers to a page number on the pamphlet. When you have designed your pamphlet in rough let your friends read it.

1. Design a front cover.

2. Write relevant information.

3. Write relevant information.

4. Write relevant information.

5. Write relevant information.

6. Give your contact details and address.

Term 1 – Week 5–6

Use a mind map to help you to plan your writing. Write a rough draft. Ask a friend to edit the draft. Revise your text and make the necessary corrections. Then write it neatly in your book.
Linking language

Simple and complex sentences
A sentence has two parts.
1. The person or thing that the sentence is about is called the subject.
2. What is said about that person or thing is called the predicate. Predicates always include the verb of the sentence.

Jim fell off his bike.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Subject</th>
<th>Predicate containing the verb fell</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Jim</td>
<td>fell off his bike.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

In the sentences below, label the subjects and predicates. Write subject under the part of the sentence that tells us who or what the sentence is about. Then underline the subject. Write predicate under the other part of the sentence and underline the verb.

The chef made a cake.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

The aeroplane flew over the mountain.

<table>

Joining sentences

We went to school and then we played netball.

Joining sentences
If we just use simple sentences in what we write and say, our speech and writing will seem jerky. If we join our sentences with conjunctions to make compound sentences, there will be a better flow.
Let’s write

The words we use to join phrases, clauses and sentences are called conjunctions. They are important for linking sentences together.

| 1. Ann studies hard | she sometimes gets bad marks. |
| 2. Ann sometimes gets bad marks | she studies hard. |
| 3. He got lost | he had a map. |
| 4. They were poor | they had enough to eat. |
| 5. Nomsa likes apples | she likes pears. |
| 6. Nomsa likes apples | she does not like pears. |
| 7. She left her book at home | she could share with her friend. |
| 8. The teacher was nice | she was strict. |
| 9. The vegetables grew well | there was only a little rain. |
| 10. The weather was bad | we decided not to go. |
| 11. He was angry | I was late. |
| 12. She went to the shop | she bought chocolates. |
| 13. Sam plays cricket | he plays soccer. |
| 14. It was hot | we decided to swim. |
| 15. She can’t see in the dark | she does not drive at night. |
| 16. We decided not to go | he woke up late. |

Use one of these conjunctions to join these sentences. Then underline the verbs.
Discuss the answers to these questions with your friend. How many arguments does the writer give and what evidence does he/she give to support each argument?

Let's talk

Let's read

Look at the following examples of persuasive writing.

Everyone at school must save electricity

Title

Purpose

To convince everyone at school to save electricity

Target audience

School principal and teachers

Firstly, electronic equipment uses a lot of energy. Therefore computer screens, overhead projectors and radios should be turned off when not in use. In the past week, all the electronic equipment was left on during breaks and after school.

Secondly, other equipment like lights and heaters also use a lot of energy. Everyone should turn off the lights when they leave the room. Heaters and fans should only be used when the weather is severe. In the past week, the heaters were left on overnight.

In conclusion, if we all think about saving electricity, we can reduce our energy consumption. We must start reducing energy consumption now.
Is TV bad for children?

To convince people that TV is not bad for children and that, although it could encourage bad habits, it also provides educational material and models good behaviour.

Parents and teachers

On the one hand, TV adverts encourage children to be greedy consumers. In addition, it is not useful for children to sit and watch sports on TV. They should participate actively in sport.

On the other hand, TV can provide information that kids need. Many programmes, such as the “Learning Channel”, teach viewers important subject content. In addition, TV also shows good habits about healthy lifestyles.

In conclusion, although watching TV can lead to bad habits, it can be educational and it can promote healthy living.

How many arguments does the writer give?
What two points does she make in favour of TV?
What two points does she make against TV?
What arguments for TV would work with teachers?
What arguments against TV would work with parents?
Discuss the following topics with a friend and choose one to write about. Then use the following mind map to plan your argument.

Let’s do

- School holidays should be longer.
- Children should get less homework.

Let’s talk

Test your argument as a debate before you write it up on the opposite page.
Let's write

Use your mind map to work out a convincing argument.

Poetic and other devices

Simile
A simile compares two things and brings out a point of similarity between them. It uses like or as.

He is as big as a house.
Can you think of other examples?

Metaphor
A metaphor compares two things by saying one thing is something else. It does not use like or as.

Her face was a picture.
Can you think of other examples?

Alliteration
Words starting with the same letter are used one after the other to capture attention.

The silly seal swims in the sea.
Can you think of other examples?

Assonance
Words with the same vowel sound are used to mimic or repeat the sound of the thing you are writing about, or to suggest a mood.

Do you like blue shoes?
Can you think of other examples?
These are words that have the same meanings. We use synonyms when we want to make our language more vivid.

The mouse is small/tiny/little.
Can you think of other examples?

These are words that have opposite meanings. We use them to express contrast.

Can you think of other examples?

These are words that imitate sounds.

Can you think of other examples?

This is the repetition of the same consonant two or more times in short succession.

Betty bought some bitter butter.
Can you think of other examples? See how the b and t are repeated.

We use hyperbole when we exaggerate. (Hyperbole is pronounced “high-per-billie”.)

It was boiling hot today.
Can you think of other examples?
A dialogue late at night

Some of the sentences in the middle describe the character on the right, some describe the character on the left. Draw a line from each sentence to the correct character.

Let’s write

What are you doing out so late?

He has a neat blue uniform.

His hair stands up in untidy spikes.

He looks like he needs to bath.

He has a deep voice.

He looks scared and guilty.

He looks stern.

He is Zakes, aged 11 years.

Nothing, just looking at the moon and the stars.

Let’s write

Now write down what the two characters say to one another. This is called a dialogue. A dialogue tells you what people say. Plays are written like this. When you have completed your dialogue, act it out for the class.

Policeman: What are you doing in the street so late at night?

Zakes: ____________________________________________

Policeman: ____________________________________________

Zakes: ____________________________________________

Policeman: ____________________________________________

Zakes: ____________________________________________

Policeman: ____________________________________________
How many speakers are there in this dialogue?
Who are they?
How would the register (or way of speaking) of a policeman differ from that of a naughty boy?

Write a paragraph in which you describe one of the characters.

Now write a dialogue that takes place between you and your teacher.
Fill in your name on the red lines.

Teacher: This is the third time this week that you did not do your homework.

Once upon a time, all the animals of Brer Village lived happily together. Life was wonderful, and the little rabbits, the stripy zebras, the happy hippos, the clever crocodile, the big elephants and the frisky monkeys all lived happily together ... until a nasty lion moved in and wanted to eat them all!

From that day on, the animals were very frightened all the time. One day, however, they made a courageous decision: they would go and talk to the lion to find a solution to this problem.

When the lion saw all the animals approaching, he was very happy, as he thought that he would not have to hunt that day – his meal was being delivered. But as his mouth was beginning to water at the thought of lunch, the plucky monkey spoke to him.

Monkey: Please, Mr King ... ah ... um ... we need to speak to you about an important matter. If you kill us all, you won’t be the king anymore.

Then all the animals began speaking almost at once.

Zebra: Yes, you would have no one to rule over.

Crocodile: You would be all alone in your kingdom.

Elephant: You would soon starve to death!

Rabbit: So we have a suggestion for you: If you stop killing us, we promise to send you someone to eat every day. You wouldn’t have to hunt ever again. You could just sit and watch TV all day long.

The lion listened to what they had to say.

Lion: You will deliver my food? That is a good solution! But I must warn you: if you miss even one day, I will eat you all in one meal!

And so it was agreed. From then on, one animal was sent to the lion’s den every day, and the lion was very happy. One day it was the rabbit’s turn to sacrifice his life to provide food for the lion. The rabbit did not want to die, so he thought of a plan.
Slowly, the rabbit made his way to the lion’s den. When he got there, the lion was pacing up and down. He was very hungry. When he saw the little rabbit, he was very angry.

Lion: Do you think a small rabbit like you will provide me with enough meat for the day? I am very hungry, and see how small and thin you are!

Rabbit: The animals had actually sent you six rabbits, Mr King, but five of them were killed and eaten by another lion.

Lion: What other lion? I am the king around here.

Rabbit: It was … the … there was a … a very big lion. The other lion said he was the real king of the jungle.

Lion: Take me to the other lion, so that I can teach him a lesson – this is MY kingdom!

The little rabbit led the lion to a deep river. He told the lion that the other lion was in the river. The lion peered into the river and saw his own reflection. He thought it was the other lion. He let out a huge roar and immediately jumped into the water to attack what he thought was the other lion. The lion hit his head against the rocks and drowned.

The little rabbit, now in excellent spirits, returned to the other animals to spread the good news. And all the animals lived happily ever after in Brer Village.

---

Let’s write

Read the following questions and answer them in the spaces provided.

Why were the other animals so afraid of the lion?

What was the little rabbit’s plan?

What would be a good name for this story?

Why did the animals stutter and stammer (say ah and um) when they talked to the lion?
Planning a play

In the previous two worksheets you read two dialogues. Now plan to write your own dialogue. Work with a partner to complete this mind map.

Title of play

1. Who are the characters?
2. What is the plot?
3. What is the setting?
4. What will the narrator say?
5. What message do I want to send?

Use the mind map to write a rough draft and then, after you have edited the draft, write your play neatly in the space provided.

Describe the setting

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Names of characters</th>
<th>What they say in the present tense</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

You can build up your characters through what they say. Write the exact words that your characters say. Fill in the names of your characters in the left-hand column and then write what they say in the present tense.
Let the learners in your group read the play you have written. Were they able to follow the plot? Did they recognise the characters in your play?
Reporting on what they say

Using quotation marks: You always start or end with a reporting verb, like ask, say, explain.

“Please give me a chance,” begged Bongi, or Bongi begged, “Give me a chance.”

“Can I go with you?” asked Peter, or “Peter asked,” “Can I go with you?”

Let’s write

Fill in the inverted commas at the start and at the end of what each speaker says.

- The monkey asked Mr King can I speak to you.
- The rabbit said if you eat us you will be all alone in your kingdom.
- The lion asked will you deliver my food to my door?
- Why did you do it? she asked.
- Anna said there is nothing we can do about it.

Now write what they are saying in reported speech.

Anna

Do you think it will rain on Saturday?

Bongi

The weather chart only shows rain at night.

Jabu

That’s good because Chiefs are playing!
Join these simple sentences to form complex sentences. Use and or because.

The cat ate a mouse. The cat ate some cheese.

We heard a strange noise. We were scared.

The dog barked. There was someone at the gate.

We ran for shelter. The rain fell.

She bought a dress. She bought a pair of shoes.

Let's write Find synonyms (words that have the same meaning) for the words in the table. Use these words to help you.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Synonyms</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>frightened</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
glossy | damaged |
messy | ancient |
brave | muddy |

Now think of antonyms for the underlined words. Write them in the box at the end of the sentence.

It was a scorching day.
I could see my dog was sick, her eyes were dull.
I passed my maths test and did badly in English.
This book is boring.
The weather is unpredictable at this time of the year.
The road was narrow and bumpy.
Let's read

A bad case of the sneezes

Last night I had the sneezes,
I was really feeling ill.
I went to see the doctor who prescribed a pinkish pill.
At eight o'clock I went to bed.
I then turned out the light.
I used up one whole box of tissues
by sneezing through the night.

I sneezed and sneezed throughout the night.
I didn’t get much rest.
So that’s the reason, teacher,
that I failed my spelling test.

Bruce Lansky (adapted)

Let's talk

- Try to feel the rhythm or beat of the poem.
- Read it out loud and clap your hands to the beat.
- Talk to your partner about the subject of the poem.

Let's write

Write your own poem. Try to make every second line end in a rhyming word.
Write your poem in rough. Read it aloud to your friend and then write it in the space below.
Prepositions are words that show the relationship of one thing to another. They often tell you where one thing is in relation to another, or the position that it is in.

Use some of these prepositions to complete the sentences below.

under  up  past  over  across  into

Jim goes ______ the road.

He gets _____ the bath.

He jumps ______ the fence.

He goes ______ the stairs.

He goes ______ the postbox.

We often describe something by saying it is like something else. For example, if someone is busy, we might say, “She is as busy as a bee.” This is called a simile. We often use animals in similes.

Let’s write

Fill in the animal name to complete the similes.

1. As heavy as an elephant
2. As brave as a
3. As busy as a
4. As slow as a
5. As free as a
6. As gentle as a
7. As hungry as a
8. As proud as a
A praise poem for South Africa

Let’s read

Let us hold hands together
South Africa,
We are a proud nation.
Together we sing our song,
Nkosi Sikelel’iAfrika.

Even we little children
Must help build our country.
Let’s make South Africa a better place
Nkosi Sikelel’iAfrika.

Masakhane let us build.
We are the leaders of tomorrow,
Leaders in our land of the sun.
Nkosi Sikelel’iAfrika

Let’s talk

- What is the poem about?
- Why do we say it is a praise poem?
- Does the poem have rhythm?
- When do people sing praise poems?

Let’s write

What do you think you, as learners, can do to make our country a better place to live in? Fill in your ideas in this mind map.

- Use a mind map to help you plan your writing
- Write a rough draft
- Ask a friend to edit the draft
- Revise your text and make the necessary corrections
- Then write it neatly in your book.
Now write a paragraph about how to make South Africa a better place to live in.

Let’s write
Use the ideas in your mind map. We have given you the main topic sentence to start your paragraph.

South Africa is a beautiful country and we can all help to make it a better place to live in.

Now write your own poem about life in South Africa.

O look at the moon,
She is shining up there;
O mother she looks
Like a lamp in the air.
Last week she was smaller
And shaped like a bow;
But now she’s grown bigger
And round as an O.

Poems around the sun

Do you know the names of the planets?
Do you wonder what the planets are like?
Are they like our planet, Earth?
Have you ever seen any of them at night, in the sky?
Do you know how far we are from the sun?

Nine planets glide around the sun,
Listen as I call each one.
Mercury? Here! Number one
Closest planet to the sun.
Venus? Here! Number two Shining bright, just like new.
Earth? Here! Number three
Earth is home to you and me.
Mars? Here! Number four
Red and ready to explore.
Jupiter? Here! Number five
Largest planet, that’s no hive.
Saturn? Here! Number six
Rings of dust and ice that mix.
Uranus? Here! Number seven
A planet tilted high in heaven.
Neptune? Here! Number eight
With one dark spot whose size is great.
Pluto? Here! Number nine
The smallest and the last in line!

Poems around the sun

M. Goldish (Adapted)

In this poem, Pluto is still called a planet. In 2006, however, scientists agreed on a new definition of what a planet is and decided that Pluto is not, in fact, a planet.
What is this poem about?
Why do you think the poet wrote this poem?
What does the poem tell you about the positions of the planets?
How close to the sun is our planet, Earth?
Read the poem aloud and tap your foot to the beat or rhythm.

Let's talk

Find six pairs of words in the poem that rhyme and write them into the table.

<table>

Let's write

Now look at the poem and at the drawing of it. See if you can fill in the names of the planets from what the poem says about where they are in relation to the sun. The poem tells you the position of each planet. In this poem, the poet calls the planets and each one answers. She treats each planet as if it's a person. We call this personification.
Plan to write a poem. Write two rhyming sentences in each box. Work with a friend. Brainstorm and write down ideas for the verses of your poem in the boxes. Then write two rhyming sentences in each box.

Term 1 – Week 9–10

Let’s write

- Use a mind map to help you plan your writing
- Write a rough draft
- Ask a friend to edit the draft
- Revise your text and make the necessary corrections
- Then write it neatly in your book.
What is a metaphor?
We use metaphors a lot in poetry. A metaphor is the use of a word (usually a common noun) or a phrase to describe the characteristics of something else. Examples are: She has a heart of ice. Her face was a picture. When you use a metaphor, you make a comparison, but you do not use “as” or “like”.

Let’s write
Now write your poem neatly and then present it to your group.

Let’s talk
Say what each of these metaphors means. Draw a picture to illustrate one of them.

She froze with fear.

The test was so easy – it was a walk in the park.

Recipe for fairy cupcakes

Ingredients

Cake mixture
- 125 g softened margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla essence
- 1 1/2 cups self-raising flour
- 3/4 cup milk

Icing
- 50 g unsalted butter
- 2 cups icing sugar
- 2 tablespoons milk
- Sprinkles to decorate

Method

The cook muddled up the instructions for making Fairy Cakes. See if you can work out how to make these cakes. Cut out the instructions on the opposite page and paste them, in the correct sequence, in this space.
Remove and allow to cool.

Mix margarine and sugar and then add the eggs and vanilla essence and beat until combined.

Preheat oven to 180 °C. Place cupcake papers into muffin pan.

Fill the cupcake papers with the mixture.

Sift flour into the margarine mixture and add milk.

Bake cupcakes for 20–25 minutes.

Cream the butter until pale and smooth and add icing sugar.

Spread the icing onto the cakes.

Add the sprinkles.

Let's write
The instructions below are for making a cup of tea. They are in the wrong order. Write them in the flow diagram in the correct order.

- Put three bags in the teapot.
- Stir tea in cup with a teaspoon.
- Leave to brew for five minutes.
- Put enough milk in cup.
- Warm the teapot with hot water.
- Pour boiling water over teabags.
- Fill a kettle with fresh water.
- Pour tea from teapot into cup.
- Boil the water in the kettle.

Now use these blocks to make a flow diagram that shows how you make a sandwich.
What is a prefix?

A prefix is not a full word. It’s a word part that is added at the beginning of a full word (called a root word). Every prefix has its own meaning. When a prefix is added to a root word, it changes the meaning of the root word.

Circle the prefixes in each of these words. Then underline the root word.

triangle refill unfair disabled prepaid disagree misbehave misunderstand rewrite disgrace unsure unhappy redo tricycle prereading misplace

</tbody>
</table>

Let’s do

Look at the example. What happens when you join the prefix and the root word? What does the new word mean?

Let’s write

Add prefixes to the underlined words to change the meaning of these sentences.

1. He always _______ behaved in class.
2. I have a _______ paid phone.
3. She was very _______ tidy.
4. You must _______ do your maths homework.
5. She uses a wheelchair because she is _______ abled.
6. The soccer player was _______ happy because they lost.
7. Her picture was _______ attractive.
8. My socks were _______ matched.
9. He was lazy and _______ reliable.
10. Leave it out, it’s _______ important.
11. He was _______ kind to his dog.
12. My favourite TV programme has been _______ continued.

Select three prefixes and use them to form three sentences.

Term 2 – Week 1–2
What is a suffix?

Suffixes are like prefixes, except that they are added to the end of a root word to change its meaning. An example: the ending -ful means “full of”, so the word beautiful means full of beauty.

Let’s do

Look at the example. What happens when you join the suffix and the root word? What does the new word mean?

Let’s write

Add suffixes to the underlined words to change the meaning of these sentences.

Select three underlined words from the previous activity and use them to form sentences.
Make these desktop dancers

Let’s do

Look at the illustrations that show how to make these creatures. With your group, work out what you need to do to make a dancer.

What you need

- Bostik glue
- 3 pipe cleaners
- 2 medium pompoms (4 cm in diameter)
- tiny pompom
- 2 googly eyes
- feather for tail
- 2 buttons for feet

How to make your pompoms

1. Draw two large circles, exactly the same, on a piece of cardboard. Now cut them out.
2. Draw two smaller circles inside the two large circles. Cut them out, so that your large cardboard circles now have a hole in the middle.
3. Put the circles together, and wrap the yellow wool through the hole in the middle and around the outside until the circles are fully covered. You can use two or three strands of wool together to cover the circles more quickly.
4. Using sharp scissors, cut the wool between the edges of the two circles.
5. Slide a piece of wool between the two circles and tie tightly. Then remove the circles.

Let’s write

Now write what you will do with all the materials including the pompoms.
How I spend a typical day

Term 2 – Week 1–2

Writing a letter with directions

Let’s write

Write a letter to a friend in another town and invite him or her to your school concert. Give your friend information on what the concert is about, what time it will start, on what date and where your school is situated. You will also need to give your friend directions. You will write these on the next page.

Dear Friend

Write a suitable greeting or salutation.

Write your address here.

Write the date here.

Write your ending here.

Write your name here.

Use a mind map to help you to plan your writing.

Write a rough draft.

Ask a friend to edit the draft.

Revise your text and make the necessary corrections.

Then write it neatly in your book.
Let's do

Draw a map from your home, a bus stop, a shop or any other place you choose, to your school.

Let's write

Now write the directions.
Subjects, verbs and objects

Read these sentences with your friend.
Underline the subject in red. The subject is the person or thing doing the action.
Underline the verb in blue. The verb is the doing word.
Underline the object in green. This tells you what or who the verb affects.

Let's write

He drank his tea.

| The cats chase the mice. |
| Ann liked Jabu. |
| The chef burned the food. |
| The boy broke the window. |
| The girl flew a kite. |
| We baked a cake. |

Find and underline the verbs in each of these sentences. Then circle the object.

| She broke the window. | I filled my glass. |
| He washes his face. | The school bus arrived late. |
| The Grade 6 class planted a tree. | Ann wrote an e-mail. |

Now look at these sentences. Underline the subject and the verb. These sentences do not have objects.

| She reads. | The dog sleeps. |
| We eat. | They work. |
| She cries. | They run. |
| Cats purr. | The boat sank. |
Let’s write

Read the following sentences carefully. Underline the subject in red, the verb in blue and the object in green.

Anna answered many questions in class today.
Mandu borrowed my pencil.
Jabu threw a paper airplane through the window!
My sister is reading her library book.
My mother is cooking a stew.
I am listening to the radio.
Oh no! I lost my cell phone!
The hail hit the window.
I have R10 in my wallet.
I ate a sandwich for lunch.

Now write sentences of your own. In each one, underline the subject in red, the verb in blue and the object in green.
What a dictionary tells us

A explanatory dictionary tells you the meaning of words and how to say them. The words in a dictionary are arranged in alphabetical order.

The bolded word is called an entry word. The entry word is printed in bold dark letters.

Next to the entry word is the small bold text that indicates the part of speech and shows the plural form of the word. It tells us whether the word is a noun, verb, conjunction.

A explanatory dictionary tells you the meaning of words and how to say them. The words in a dictionary are arranged in alphabetical order. Some definitions have an example sentence that shows how the word is used. (Look at the definitions for hoard.)

The definition tells the meaning of the word. When a word has more than one meaning, the definitions are numbered.
One night Lindiwe lay in bed and read about crocodiles in her favourite magazine, “National Animal Magazine”. Before she went to sleep she put the magazine on the bookshelf, just outside the bathroom door. Later that night, as she was on her way to the bathroom, she heard a hissing from the bookshelf. She was half asleep so she didn’t really pay attention to it. But then the pile of newspapers and magazines on the bookshelf began to move. The pile toppled over and suddenly there were magazines and newspapers all over the floor, and the hissing got louder. Lindiwe could not believe her eyes: a grunting, snorting crocodile was coming out from under the bookshelf. She was half asleep so she didn’t really pay attention to it. But then the crocodile made a hissing sound and swung its head and tail. It opened its mouth, and Lindiwe swallowed hard when she saw its long row of teeth. The “National Animal Magazine” was lying on the floor next to the crocodile. Something about it wasn’t quite right. Lindiwe stared at it, and then she saw that the picture on the cover was different. Instead of a big crocodile on a river bank, now there was just a river bank! She picked up the magazine. At that moment the crocodile whipped his tail so hard that he broke her mother’s favourite vase and the glass shattered everywhere. Lindiwe ran to her bedroom and slammed the door. She sat on her bed, feeling relieved. “Maybe the best way to get rid of it would be to give it something to eat,” she thought. She looked at the “National Animal Magazine” and said to herself, “If the croc could crawl out of the picture then perhaps other animals could too.” She paged through and found a picture of some flamingos. “They’d be a good meal for the croc,” she thought. A loud crack made her jump, and she saw the tip of the crocodile’s tail crashing through the splintered door. She pushed the flamingo... picture through the hole in the door to show the crocodile its meal. Suddenly there were dozens of screeching flamingos wildly flapping their wings and running around on their long skinny legs outside her door. Then a flamingo disappeared into the crocodile’s mouth and then another and another and another. Exhausted, he lay down and closed his eyes and no longer moved. Lindiwe quietly opened her door and placed the magazine in front of the crocodile’s nose. “Please,” she whispered, “please go back home.” She crept back into the room and looked through the hole in the door. The crocodile and the flamingos were disappearing back into the magazine.

In the morning her parents wanted to know how the floor got wet, how her door got broken and how her mother’s favourite vase came to be smashed into small pieces lying all over the floor. Lindiwe didn’t know.

These sentences are about what happened in Lindiwe’s story. They are in the wrong sequence. Number them so that you have the correct sequence. We have numbered a few to help you.

Finite Verbs

Finite verbs are verbs that have a definite relation between the subject or noun. These verbs are usually the main verb and change according to the noun. They are used only in the present and past tenses. See these examples.

Read the sentences and then underline all the finite verbs. Then circle the person or thing that is doing the action. These words will all be nouns or pronouns.

Role play

- Make up a role play in which you show Lindiwe telling her parents what happened.
- Do you think her parents will believe the story?
- Show how Lindiwe convinces her parents to believe what she says about how the floor became wet, how her mother’s vase was shattered and how her bedroom door got a hole in it. Make up an ending for your role play.

Look at the story again. Focus on Lindiwe’s character. Think about all the things she did to save herself from the crocodile. Fill in some adjectives to describe her character.

Let’s write

Now use the adjectives to write a character sketch of Lindiwe.
Plan to write a description of a dream or a nightmare that you had. Use the mind map for your planning.

Your topic is: "Last night I dreamed that ...". Fill in your main ideas on the mind map. Say what you did before you went to sleep, what happened in your dream and how it ended. Mention how you felt during the dream. Were you afraid? After you have done this, write three or four paragraphs about your dream. Write your description on rough paper. Ask your friend to check it for you. Tomorrow you will copy your work neatly into the next worksheet.

Let's write

1. What I did before I slept.
2. How the dream started.
3. How I felt during the dream.
4. Last night I dreamed...
5. How the dream ended.

When I woke up.

The young Nelson Mandela

Let's talk

- Have you heard of Nelson Mandela?
- What other famous people do you know?

What is an autobiography?
An autobiography is the story written by the person whom the book is about. Auto means “self”, and bio means “life” and graphy means “writing”. The author is always the main character in an autobiography. Autobiographies tell the history of the author’s life. In this worksheet you will read a part of the autobiography taken from the famous book The Long Walk to Freedom by Nelson Mandela. We have simplified it for school reading purposes.

Before you read

- Look at the pictures and headings and try to predict what the text will be about.
- Skim the page to see what you will read about.

While you read

- Compare your predictions with what you read.
- If you don’t understand a section, read it again slowly. Read it aloud.

Let’s read

My name is Nelson Mandela.
I live in South Africa, a very beautiful country right at the tip of Africa. I was born in the tiny village of Mvezo in the Eastern Cape on 18 July 1918, so I am a very old man now.

My father was a chief. He gave me the name of Rolihlahla, which in Xhosa means “troublemaker”. I was still very young, about 1 or 2, when my family moved to Qunu. My days in Qunu were very happy days. As I grew up I used to herd my family’s sheep and goats.

I played with my friends in the fields. We swam in the rivers and we ate the sweetest honey, which we took from the beehives. I was always careful to avoid bee stings. Once I tried to ride a donkey and I was doing very well until the donkey threw me into a thorn bush!

When I turned seven, my father sent me to a missionary school. I was the first person in my family to go to school. My father had never been to school. We had to wear smart clothes for school, but my family was too poor to buy school clothes.

My father took some of his old trousers and cut them off at the knees. I did not have a belt, so my father took a piece of string and drew the trousers in at the waist. But I was proud, very proud, to wear those trousers.

At school, my teacher decided to call me Nelson. Can you imagine getting a new name when you are seven?
I was happy at school and happy at home. My mother used to tell me lots of stories from long ago. I learnt so much from her stories. She taught me to always be kind to people.

My father taught me to be brave. I wanted to be brave like him. I wanted to be just like him. I used to put ash on my hair to make it look grey like his. I loved my father.

Soon after I turned 9, my life changed because my father died. I had to pack the few things I had and walk with my mother to my new home. It was painful for me to leave Qunu. I turned and looked back at my home and the happiness I was leaving behind.

I looked at the huts and the people going about their business. I looked at the stream where I had splashed and played with the other boys. I imagined that I could no longer play with my friends. My eyes rested on the three huts at my home. I left – but I could not imagine my future.

I went to live with my Uncle Jongi in Mqhekezweni, a nearby village. He was my father’s best friend. I missed Qunu and my family there, but my life with Uncle Jongi was a good one. I played with his son, Justice, and we had lots of fun. We rode horses, worked in the garden, played in the green fields and swam in the river. My uncle treated me like his own child.

I went to the nearby school. Then when I was 16 Uncle Jongi sent me to Clarkebury School. Like my father, my uncle believed that education was very important. Three years later I went to Healdtown High School. I did my best at school and studied hard. When I finished school I went to the University of Fort Hare. By then I was 21.

It continues to happen

We use the present continuous tense to show what actions are happening now.

She is watching TV now.

Complete the following sentences using the correct form of the present continuous tense of the verbs in brackets.

He (swim) in the river now.
She is (play) soccer at the moment.
They (walk) to school.

Past continuous tense

We use the past continuous tense to show actions that were happening in the past.

The children were sleeping when the fire broke out.

Let’s write

Complete the following sentences using the past progressive tense of the verbs in brackets.

The sun (shine) when I woke up.
It (rain) when I walked to the bus stop.
I (eat) breakfast when she phoned.

Future continuous tense

We use the future continuous tense to show an action that will happen over a period of time in the future.

I will be working the whole of next week.

Let’s write

Complete the following sentences using the correct form of the future continuous (or progressive) tense of the verbs in brackets.

We (go) on a school trip for the whole week.
I (attend) soccer training next weekend.
We (drive) to Cape Town tomorrow.

- Records new words and meanings in personal dictionary.
Today we are going to read the story of a legendary African spider called Anansi. When you read the story focus on his character. He is a legendary trickster.

How the spider got such thin legs

Once upon a time, a long time ago, there lived a spider named Anansi. Although Anansi was a very good cook he was a bit lazy, so he preferred to eat the food that others in the village made for themselves and for their families.

One day, he stopped off at Rabbit’s house. Rabbit was his good friend.

“There are greens in your pot,” cried Anansi excitedly. Anansi loved greens. “They are not quite ready yet,” said Rabbit. “But they will be ready soon. Stay and eat with me.”

“I would love to, Rabbit, but I have some things to do,” Anansi said hurriedly. He thought that if he waited at Rabbit’s house, Rabbit would certainly give him some jobs to do. He did not want to end up washing dishes.

“Tell you what,” said Anansi. “I’ll spin a web. I’ll tie one end around my leg and one end to your pot. When the greens are done, tug on the web, and I’ll come running!”

Rabbit thought that was a great idea. And so it was done.

“Delicious beans, cooking in a pot.”

“I’d love to, Father Monkey,” said Anansi. He again suggested that he spin a web, with one end tied around his leg, and one end tied to the big bean pot.

Father Monkey thought that was a great idea. All his children thought so, too. And so it was done.

“Sweet potatoes and honey. How delicious!”

“Anansi,” called his friend Pig. “My pot is full of sweet potatoes and honey! Come share my food with me.”

“I’d love to,” said Anansi. And again, he suggested he spin a web, with one end tied around his leg, and one end tied to the sweet potato pot.

His friend Pig thought that was a great idea. And so it was done.
By the time Anansi arrived at the river, he had one web tied to each of his eight legs. “This was a wonderful idea,” Anansi told himself proudly. “I wonder whose pot will be ready first? I will be able to eat eight meals today. Lucky me.”

Just then, Anansi felt a tug at his leg. “Ah,” said Anansi. “That’s the web string tied to Rabbit’s greens.” He felt another. And another. Anansi was pulled three ways at once. “Oh dear,” said Anansi, as he felt the fourth web string pull. Just then, he felt the fifth web string tug. And the sixth. And the seventh. And the eighth! Anansi was pulled this way and that way, as everyone pulled on the web strings at once. His legs were pulled thinner and thinner. Anansi rolled quickly into the river. Eventually, when all the webs had washed away, Anansi pulled himself painfully out of the river. “Oh my, oh my,” sighed Anansi. “Perhaps that was not such a good idea after all.” To this day, Anansi the spider has eight very thin legs. And he never got any food that day at all.

Let’s talk

Why did Anansi decide not to wait at Rabbit’s house until the greens were cooked?
How did he end up with eight thin legs?
How did Anansi save himself from being pulled into pieces?
What is the moral of the story? How do we know that this is not a true story?
Look at the pictures and then tell your friend the story in the correct sequence.
Thinking about characters

Look carefully at what Anansi says and does in the story. Then fill in some adjectives that describe his character.

Character's full name
Gender
Age
Physical appearance
Occupation
Talents or skills
Why you have chosen him/her

Use these adjectives to write a description of his character.

Now describe the character of a real person.

Choose a person to write about. The person can be a hero, living or dead.

Character's full name
Gender
Age
Physical appearance
Occupation
Talents or skills
Why you have chosen him/her

Make a list of character traits (qualities). Brainstorm your list with a friend. Use adjectives as much as possible.

For each character trait, write about things they did or said that are examples of that character trait.
Now fill in some adjectives that describe your character. Draw or paste his/her picture in the space below.

Let's do

Use your adjectives to write a character sketch. Discuss the character with a friend. Then write a draft character sketch on a piece of paper. Ask your friend to edit your draft. You can edit her/his draft. Rewrite your sketch neatly below.
Writing a story with believable characters

Let’s do:

Plan your story. Think about the plot and the character. Then show how the plot and the character progress through the stages of the story. Fill in some adjectives to help you to develop your character.

Jacob was a member of the Newville Soccer Club. He and his friends would go to soccer practice every day after school. Jacob would run with the team and practise playing soccer as if there was no tomorrow. He would train until his muscles ached. He practised ball control and he practised shooting at the goals even with his eyes closed. Yet somehow, the coach never chose him to play in the team. At best, Jacob ended up on the bench as a reserve and seldom got to play.

Jacob dreamed of playing. He dreamed of scoring the winning goal.

Then one day shortly before the final game Jacob gave up. “There is no point,” he told his mother. “I train so hard, I never miss a practice session, but the coach never puts me into the team.”

“I think I am giving up” he said, “I am at my wits end.”

“Don’t do that, Jacob,” his mother said. “You’ll get your chance someday soon.”

“The coach never chooses me,” he said, woefully.

Then, on the Saturday before the big game, the coach called out the names of the team. Jacob peeped and saw his name on the list. “Jacob, you’ve been training hard. You will play in the forward position. Remember, it’s the final game,” he cautioned.

Jacob could not believe his ears.

The big day came and the crowds were screaming and the vuvuzelas shrieked across the village.

With one minute to the final whistle, the score was 0 – 0. Newville Club had to score!

“Take the ball, Jacob,” Jabu screamed, passing him the ball.
Jacob had to score. With a burst of speed he sped passed the two defenders. He darted left and then right, leaving his opponents in confusion. He had the goal posts in his sight. “Jacob! Jacob!” the crowd cheered. It was like his dream. Then suddenly, from nowhere, a boot cut into his ankle and sent him crashing to the ground. “Foul! Foul!” shouted the coach.

“Tweeet! Tweeet!” blew the referee’s whistle. “Free kick for Newville Club!” he shouted. “Jacob, take the kick.”

Jacob placed the ball on the field. He took a deep breath, took two huge steps back as he had done a thousand times during the practice. He focused on the top right corner of the goal and kicked with all his might. The ball flew over the goalie, and curved into the net. The crowd went wild. Newville won the championship.

“I told you so,” his mother said as she hugged him. “Practice makes perfect.”
What else does the story tell us?

Idioms

1. He could not believe his ears.
2. Jacob was at his wits’ end.
3. Practice makes perfect.

Figures of speech

- What figures of speech are these?
  - the vuvuzelas shrieked
  - tweeeeet, tweeeeet
  - the ball flew

Find another word in the story for these words. Write them in your dictionary.
- warmed
- peeped

Let’s write

Imagine you are Jacob. Write a diary entry for the day summarising what happened and how you felt. Use the words First I, then I and finally I.

Dear diary

[Blank space for writing]
Now write a character sketch about Jacob. Brainstorm with your friends to find descriptive words. Fill in adjectives that describe his character.

Let’s write

Underline the verb and circle the helping verb. Then write the sentences in the negative form.

I am going to school.

Jacob is late for soccer practice.

We were running on the soccer field.

Jacob was chosen for the team.

Use your adjectives to write a character sketch. Write your draft on a piece of paper. Ask your friend to edit your draft. You can edit her/his draft. Then write the character sketch neatly in the space provided.
Plan a story

Talk to your friend about a story you want to write. Then fill in your ideas on this page.

Who are my characters?

Where does the story take place?

What happened in the story?

How does the story end?

Discuss your plan with your friend. Then write your draft on a piece of paper.

Ask your friend to edit your draft. You can edit her/his draft.

Write your story neatly on the opposite page.
Writing my story

The End
It happened some time before

It happened at an unspecified time before now

Present perfect tense

We use the present perfect tense to show that an action happened at an unspecified time in the past. The exact time is not important. When we use the present perfect tense we use “vague” expressions of time, such as ever, never, once, many times, several times, before, so far, already, yet.

Let’s write

Underline have or has before the verb. Circle the verb.

1. She has seen that movie twenty times.
2. I think I have met him once before.
3. There have been many floods in KwaZulu-Natal.
4. People have travelled to space.
5. Have you read the book yet?
6. I have seen that movie.
7. I have spoken to him several times about his bad manners.
8. We have been to Cape Town several times.
9. I am afraid that I have lost your book.
10. He has visited us many times.

Now complete writing these sentences in the present perfect tense.

He went home because he had

She ran to school because she had

I have lost

We had been to
Fill in has or have and the correct form of the verb in brackets.

He has visited us many times.

I see my sunglasses.

She see that movie three times.

She return my book at last.

They make that same mistake several times.

They wash the dishes.

We read so many stories in this book.

We finish all our homework.

We hear the story before.

You be to Polokwane.

Now complete these sentences.

She has returned my book.

They have seen that movie.

We have been on vacation.

I have studied English.
Interview with a soccer star

When people talk about soccer, the stars they mention are usually men. But one of South Africa’s best footballers is a woman: Noko Alice Matlou. Matlou was named champion African Player of the Year in 2009 by the Confederation of African Football. She was the first South African person to ever win this award. Read this interview with Matlou to find out more about her.

Where were you born, and where do you live now?
I was born in Molegie, Gaphaudi in Limpopo. That is where I still live.

When did you first become interested in sport?
I started playing soccer at primary school. I already enjoyed sport and I was always good at athletics and football. I used to do running and I was very fast, especially in the 100 metres and 200 metres. When I was at school I was a sprinter and I set some records.

Then in 2000 I started playing football professionally for the Brazilian Ladies football club. In 2007 I started playing football for Banyana Banyana.

How do you keep fit?
I train twice a day. I wake up in the morning and go jogging for 30 minutes. Then at 3 o’clock I train for about three hours. That’s when I do ball training.

What advice can you give to other young people?
Train hard, then you’ll play easily.
Read the information about Matlou on the previous page and then answer the following questions:

What are Matlou’s achievements?

How do we know that Matlou is dedicated to soccer? Give reasons from the article.

How did her football career start?

Let your partner pretend to be a sports star. Then interview your partner to find out more about his or her achievements.

You will need to find out:

- When and how he or she became interested in the sport
- His or her main sporting achievements
- What message does he or her have for other young people.

Now choose someone in your school or community that you think is talented at sport. Ask the person to let you interview them. In the interview, try to get answers to the questions below. And then write a character sketch of the person.

- What was your childhood like? When did you become interested in sport?
- What are your main achievements?
- What message do you have for other young people in South Africa?
In 2010 South Africa hosted the FIFA World Cup soccer tournament. Thousands of spectators visited the ten stadiums to watch the games. Soccer teams from all over the world came here to compete for the Cup.

What facts do you know about the 2010 soccer tournament? Read the information in the tables below, and answer the questions that follow.

Let’s write
The history of soccer

The Romans

The Roman version of soccer was called “Harpastum”. It also had two teams with 27 players on each side. People enjoyed playing it and watching it. Large crowds of people went to watch Harpastum games, which were often held in buildings similar to the stadiums we know today. It was also time of big business for hawkers selling pizza and spaghetti to the huge crowds of fun-loving spectators!

The Chinese

Hundreds of years ago in China, around 400 BC, soldiers played a game called “Ts’u Chu”, which was the forerunner of soccer. Players kicked a ball stuffed with feathers into a small net, about 40 cm wide, fixed on bamboo canes.

The Japanese

Later, in about 600 AD, Japan had its own version of soccer, called “Kemari”. Players formed a circle and kicked the ball towards one another without letting it touch the ground. This is familiar to us, isn’t it?

The Greeks

The Greeks also had a brand of soccer, known as “Episkyros”, which involved both kicking and carrying the ball. It was played by two teams which could have as many as 27 players each! It was similar to the game we call rugby today.

In which countries did football develop?
How do we know from the web page that people loved football?
Why was the game outlawed?
In England, ordinary people from entire villages would get together to kick a ball through the streets and across the fields. The game was brutal. People pushed and shoved each other and there were many injuries. The game had no rules and it was very dangerous to play. They called the game “Shrovetide football”. Towns and villages played against each other, with hundreds of people taking part in a contest that lasted the whole day. The ball could be kicked through the streets, in the water, through the market, on rooftops – anywhere. There were no referees, no off-sides, no throw-ins, no kick-offs, no corner kicks, no goal kicks, no drop kicks, and no player position. No wonder that many people ended up with broken legs, arms and heads!

Soccer an unlawful sport
In 1314, King Edward II instructed the Lord Mayor of London to outlaw the playing of football in the city. This was because of the noise in the city and the injuries to players. Later, Queen Elizabeth I jailed soccer players for one week. But nothing could stop the game. People risked going to jail for the sake of a game they loved.

The first rules
The first soccer rules were introduced in 1815. The famous English school, Eton College, established a set of rules to reduce the lack of discipline in the game. This was the start of football as we know it today.

A Global obsession
The introduction of official rules helped to increase the popularity of soccer. The game spread rapidly throughout the rest of Britain and soon reached Europe and the rest of the world. The first ever World Cup took place in 1930. This competition has taken place every four years since then, and it is a sign of the popularity of the game all over the world. In fact, soccer today is the most popular sport in the world.

Let’s talk
- What rules do we have in present day soccer to ensure the safety of players on the field?
- Talk to your friend about the different stages in the history of soccer. Discuss what soccer means in your school, family, community and culture.
Let's write

Write about a sport (or any other hobby) that you know well. Do not write about soccer. Choose another sport or hobby to write about.

Plan your writing. Brainstorm the topic with your friends and then complete the mind map.

Then write your first draft on rough paper and ask a friend to edit it for you.

Write your text neatly in the space on the opposite page.

1. What is the sport or hobby about?
2. Who are the leaders in this field?
3. What is the history of the sport/hobby?
4. What are the rules of the sport?
5. How popular is it?
6. Where is it played?

More about adjectives

An adjective is a word that describes a noun or a pronoun. Adjectives tell you what a person, place or thing is like. For example, “dog” is a noun, but what kind of dog? The “big, brown, fury dog” tells us more about that fury dog.

Adjectives can also tell us about numbers. “There are seventeen learners in our class.” “Seventeen” is an adjective.

They also answer the question: “Which one(s)?” For example:
- How do these fish live?
- What is that hippo doing?
- Where did those wild buffalo come from?

Let’s write

Cross out the words that are not adjectives.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>big</th>
<th>fast</th>
<th>paper</th>
<th>crunchy</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>skinny</td>
<td>slow</td>
<td>shiny</td>
<td>delicious</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>red</td>
<td>run</td>
<td>soft</td>
<td>spoon</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>quickly</td>
<td>new</td>
<td>warm</td>
<td>green</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Then use five adjectives to form sentences.
Underline the adjective(s) in each sentence.

There will be blue and red seats in the new stadium.
There were soft pillows and warm blankets on the old bed.
A famous artist painted those beautiful pictures in your book.
I am going to Dudu’s house to see her new red bicycle.
Clever Jabu baked a delicious chocolate cake.
It is a tiny, brown, loud bird.
Dolphins are much smaller than whales.
The small, quiet, grey cat is scratching the big shiny wooden table.

Now sort out the adjectives you have underlined onto these cards.
It all depends on the weather

Let’s talk
- What weather do you like best? Why?
- Why is it important for us to know what the weather is going to be like tomorrow or next week?
- Do you ever listen to the weather forecast? Why?

Describes what the weather is like during the different seasons where you live.

Would you move to a place that is very hot or very cold? Why?

Let’s read
- Write down the weather conditions and the temperatures for the following cities.
- Write down the answers to these questions.

What are the two hottest places in South Africa? Give their names and the temperatures.

In which town is it raining?

Which city has a cold front?

<table>

Name one town or city that is cloudy.
Where is the lowest temperature, and what is it?
What is the wind direction?
Where would you expect a thunderstorm?
Which city is partly cloudy?
Look at the picture below. This kind of picture is called a line graph. Notice that each line is a different colour. What do the lines tell us? You will find the answer on the left of the graph.

Cape Town, South Africa Climate Graph (Altitude: 42 m)

Let's write

In the table, write down the colours of the lines that show the following:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Average temperature</th>
<th>The sea temperature</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Average number of hours of sunlight each day</td>
<td>The humidity</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Number of wet days</td>
<td>The wind speed</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Work with a friend. Look at the chart again and answer the following questions.

What was the minimum temperature at the end of September?

What was the average number of sunlight hours at the end of February?

In which month was the humidity highest?

In which month was the sea temperature the lowest?

Which month had the highest maximum temperature?

In which months did it rain most?
All life on earth depends on water. Apart from the air we breathe, water is the most important substance for all living things. Without it, living things cannot stay alive. If we do not have enough water in our bodies, waste products cannot be removed. This would affect many parts of our bodies and would cause illnesses.

We need to understand the water cycle to understand where water comes from. The water cycle is the never-ending movement of water between the sea, land and air.

The picture below explains and shows you what happens in the water cycle.

1. Evaporation
The sun heats up the water in rivers or oceans and turns it into water vapour.

2. Condensation
When the water vapour in the air gets cold it condenses and turns into clouds.

3. Precipitation
When a lot of water has condensed, the air cannot hold it any more and the water falls back to the earth in the form of rain, hail, sleet or snow.

When the water ends up on the land it will go into the earth and become ground water which plants and animals use. It could also go into rivers, lakes and oceans, and then the cycle starts again.
Look at the diagram of the water cycle again. Explain to one another how the water cycle works. In your explanation use the following words: evaporation, condensation, precipitation.

The diagram shows a cycle (things that happen in a set order).

Now write a sentence to describe what happens in each phase of the cycle.

- Phase 1:

- Phase 2:

- Phase 3:
Write an information text

Over the past two weeks you have read a number of different types of information texts. Plan to write your own information text.
You will need to select a topic and then you will need to do some research using a reference book or the internet.
Complete this mind map to help you with your planning.

1. Introducing my information
2. What I learned from my research
3. What the experts say about the topic
4. What diagrams or pictures I can include
5. What headings I will use
Write up your topic in rough. Ask a friend to edit your work. She or he should check your spelling, punctuation, logical flow and sequence. Ensure that you have headings and that your diagrams or charts explain what you mean.
What’s on the box?

Do you ever use a TV guide? Look carefully at this TV guide. Tell your friend which programmes you would like to watch. Say which channel they are on and at what time.

Let’s write

Now read the TV guide carefully and answer these questions.

1. At what time would you watch Takalani Sesame?
2. Which programmes are sports programmes?
3. Which programmes give you the news in a minute?
4. You have to present a summary of the news in class. Which programme will give you the information you need to do this?
5. Which programmes will give you information about the weather?

How to use the Fun Finger Fortune:

1. Have a friend ask a “Yes or No” question (like “am I pretty?” or “Does Sam like me?”)
2. Ask them to pick a color. Spell out the color “R” - “E” - “D” while opening and closing the Fun Finger Fortune Teller in opposite directions with each letter.
3. Then ask them to pick a number from where the Fortune Teller was left open after the last letter.
4. Now open and close the Fortune Teller that number of times.
5. Now have them pick one of the numbers showing. Pull up the flap with that number on it and your answer will be revealed.

Instructions:

1. Cut off the instructions.
2. Fold the paper in half and in half again.
3. Unfold it and place it printed side down.
4. Fold up all 4 corners so that the points meet in the middle.
5. It should now look like this.
6. Flip it over.
7. Fold up all 4 corners so that the points meet in the middle.
8. It should now look like this.
9. Fold it in half.
10. Work your fingers into the corners so that the creases form the four points and your answer will be revealed.
